Ten Evening News Readers Get Free Air Ride at Yesterday's Big Rodeo

The Glendale airport will be the scene of a monster aerial meet on March 14 and 15, with aviators and planes from all parts of the United States competing for trophies, according to an announcement made today by W. B. Kinner, president of the airplane construction company which bears his name.

Invitations to the meet will be delivered in person at the various fields along the western coast by Dr. T. C. Young, who will leave this week for the fields in one of his airplanes. Events at the big meet will include numerous races, stunt flying, parachute jumping, wing walking and other aerial acrobatics, according to Mr. Kinner.

The air rodeo staged at the airport yesterday afternoon attracted a crowd conservatively estimated at more than 5,000 persons. Ten readers of The Glendale Evening News were given free rides, while a number of other passengers made trips, in addition to a number of stunts put on by the flyers of the field.

Hectic Trend Of Wheat Price Affects Bread

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—The upward trend of prices in the hectic Chicago wheat pit had its reflection on living costs today when the smaller bakeries here almost universally announced an increase of from 1 to 2 cents on pound loaves of bread and from 2 to 3 cents on the pound and a half loaves. The larger companies did not post the increase, but their officials indicated that if present wheat prices are maintained, they will be forced to advance prices when their flour supplies now on hand are exhausted.

UNABLE TO PICK ANOTHER MEMBER

Valley Investigating Body Deadlocked In Initial Session In L. A.

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—Split two assemblymen against two senators, members of the investigating committee appointed by the Legislature to endeavor to solve the Owens Valley water wrangle, were deadlocked in the initial session held here today, over the selection of Clyde L. Seavy, member of the State Railroad commission, as the fifth member.

It was apparent Senator H. C. Jones voted for Robert C. Beasley, assemblyman from Antioch in favor of Seavy. According to Beasley, he had instructed Assemblyman Edward J. Smith of Oakland to vote in favor of Assemblyman Isaac Jones of Ontario as the fifth member.

He and Smith, it was revealed, had endeavored to convince Senator Jones they were opposed to Seavy because of his interest in politics, and the possibility of Seavy being a candidate for governor or lieutenant governor. Seavy, who was present at the initial session, explained that he had no intention of being a candidate for either office and said:

"If I were a candidate, it would have been foolish for me to have gotten into this mess."

The split had a deadening effect on the representatives from Inyo county and those selected to represent Los Angeles' interests, because it was apparent that politics was the cause of the wrangle.

It will be remembered that Frank Merriam, speaker of the Assembly, appointed Beasley and Smith as assembly members and they are known to be administration men. Lieut. Gov. C. T. Young awaited the naming of the two assemblymen and then appointed Senators Jones and Thom-

CONFIRMATION OF STONE ASSURED

Fight Against Appointment To Supreme Court Is Now Over, Belief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The month old fight to prevent elevation of Attorney-General Harlan Fiske Stone to the United States supreme court virtually ended this afternoon when the Senate judiciary committee recommended his appointment for the second time.

The committee took this action when Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho and Walsh, Democrat, Montana, withdrew their opposition to the appointment which had been based on charges that Stone was "persecuting" Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana. While the committee was approving Stone's promotion, a federal grand jury met in the court house, a few blocks away, to re-indict Wheeler. It was this move by the attorney-general that provoked the attack on his nomination.

The committee acted without a record roll call, but announcement was made that no negative votes were cast against Stone. Senator Walsh attended the session. The result, it was predicted, insures confirmation of Stone by the Senate within a few days.

Another Delay

Another of President Coolidge's appointments, that of William E. Humphries of Seattle, Wash., as a member of the federal trade commission, was held up today in the Senate.

As a result of a fight which developed in the Interstate commerce committee, a sub-committee was appointed to investigate Humphries' connection with lumber and oil concerns.

The committee named was Senators Watson, Republican, Indiana; Fess, Republican, Ohio, and Mayfield, Democrat of Texas.

MAN IN CAVE CAUGHT BY BIG ROCK

Volunteer Rescue Force In Hope of Freeing Him Within Few Hours

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 2.—The staccato tap-tap of a portable automatic drill today was sending its message of hope re-echoing through the dark recesses of Sand cave, where 800 feet from the mouth, lies Floyd Collins, 35, faintly conscious, after more than forty-eight hours' imprisonment beneath a huge boulder, loosed upon him by a landslide in the cave.

Each impact of the drill, rushed here by special arrangement from Louisville when the squads of volunteer rescuers made but feeble impressions on the pinioning rocks, brought freedom nearer to the weakened man and workers were hopeful that his release would be effected by nightfall.

Revived by Food

Collins, who previously had helped direct his rescuers, was able to give only faint gestures today. He was advised of the arrival of the drill and weakly signalled his appreciation. Then he relapsed into silence and it was feared he had collapsed. Later, however, he revived and ate food brought to him by rescuers who wriggled through the narrow opening soaked with icy water seeping in from melting snows. Collins was trapped Friday, when, it is believed, he jarred loose earth and rocks loosened by the seeping water.

Faces Drowning

The icy waters, seeping into the cave from the higher ground rose steadily as the day progressed and by noon, it became almost certain that if the drill fails to batter its way to the imprisoned man by nightfall, he will be drowned.

Homer Collins, a brother, has offered a reward of $500 to any competent man who will chloroform Floyd and amputate the leg which holds him prisoner.

BASEBALL 'DEALS' HIT BY NEW BILL

Measure Introduced In House Would Virtually Prohibit Sale of Players

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A bill designed to prevent the sale of professional baseball players from one club to another for huge sums of money was introduced in the House today by Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York. The bill provides federal tax of 90 per cent of any amount in excess of $5000 involved in such sale.

"This measure" said La Guardia "will end the so-called baseball slavery whereby the efforts and proficiency of a young man in his profession cannot be enjoyed by himself."

La Guardia pointed out that the only way a prospective star can enter big leagues now is to secure a position with a smaller club and then be sold later to a club in the big league. The money involved in the transfer goes to the club from which he is purchased and not to himself.

CORPORATIONS LOSE FIGHT TO PREVENT PAYMENT

Impending Decision Cause of Santa Fe Handing Over Money to Controller

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—Forecasting victory for the state of California in the famous King tax suit, involving more than $13,000,000 in protested tax payments, authoritative reports were received here today that the United States supreme court has held the increase in corporation tax levies constitutonal and will hand down its decision immediately.

Apparently confirming reports of the impending decision, an agent of the Santa Fe railroad called at the offices of State Sontroller Ray L. Riley today and paid the difference between the old 5¼ per cent tax and the new 7 per cent tax for the fiscal year 1924-25.

The King tax bill, which was enacted by the 1921 Legislature after one of the bitterest legislative fights in the state's history, jumped the rates on all public utility corporations from 5¼ per cent of their gross receipts to 7 per cent.

The Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railways immediately questioned the validity of the tax, holding that it was unconstitutional because it failed to include certain electric railroads, and they secured an injunction prohibiting the state controller from collecting the increase levy until the question had been decided by the court.

Boy Badly Burned When Flash Powder Explodes

A boy prank Sunday afternoon nearly cost the life of Joe Tuomy, aged 15, who had his hand shattered and face badly burned when a batch of flashlight powder he and his companions were compounding went off with terrific violence, at the home of J. M. Wilson, 704 North Kenwood street. The boy is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Clark F. Tuomy, 318 Griswold street. He was rushed to the Glendale hospital, where a finger of his right hand was amputated this morning

The explosion occurred in the kitchen, shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The chemical name for the substance the boys were making is potassium chlorate, compounded with sulphur, magnesium and aluminum paint, a highly combustible mixture, used by photographers in taking pictures at night and under artificial light.

The kitchen was badly wrecked by the blast, reports Detective Sergeant C. P. Blake of the Glendale police department, who made the investigation. A hole was torn in the tile sink, where the boys were at work with their dangerous chemicals, two windows were blown out, a door was torn from the cupboard and dozens of dishes smashed, while the entire room showed the force of the explosion.

According to the version of William Hillman, one of the boys, he had gone to Joe Tuomy's house at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They had played ball a while, and had then gone in to the house where the blast occurred, to see their friend, Fayette Wilson. They found Harry Becker and Carrick Oldham there, all boys of around 15 years of age. The family were absent.

The boys took a tin can filled with the mixture, drove out to Sycamore canyon in an automobile, and exploded the "bomb," using a fuse made of newspaper. It made "a great racket," according to young Hillman.

They then returned to the Wilson home to mix up another batch. It was in the preparation of this second lot of the compound that the accident occurred, the explosion coming as young Tuomy was stirring the substance in a mortar. None of the other boys were injured.

LOCAL ARTIST TO PLAY AT CONCERT

Gertrude Cleophas, Pianist, To Be Heard Tomorrow At Tuesday Club

Bearing out one of the dominating aims upon which the organization is founded, that of sponsoring talented artists residing in Glendale, the Glendale Music club will have as one of the feature artists on the "Founders' Night" program tomorrow night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, Miss Gertrude Cleophas, pianist, who resides at 337 North Central avenue. She will share honors with Maurice Lavove, Russian baritone, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Guy Bush. One critic said: "Miss Cleophas has deep musical insight and is an industrious student, who holds her art reverently. Her modest, unaffected demeanor creates a most favorable impression upon her audiences, whom she succeeds in winning by her splendid musicianship."

DISAPPOINTED LOVER DIES BY POISON

Glendale Shingler Ends Life With Bicholoride When Romance Darkens

In despair over a hopeless love entanglement, Barney Wonch of 306 North Central avenue, 25 years old, a shingler, swallowed bicholoride of mercury tablets early yesterday afternoon, Sunday, February 1, 1925, and died at 4:30 o'clock in the Los Angeles County hospital.

He sat up until a late hour Saturday night, talking over the love affair with his friend, Dale M. Moore, of the same address. Finally, after midnight, according to Moore, he went to bed, where he tossed until morning. Rising early, he went out, leaving a note saying "Give all I got to Steppler."

He then drove to a drug store at Central avenue and Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, Glendale police records show, and there purchased a bottle of the deadly tablets.

Swallows 25 Tablets

In the early afternoon he arrived at the house of his employer, C. F. Steppler, 404 West Ivy street, where he announced that he had swallowed twenty-five bichloride tablets, producing the empty bottle as evidence. Moore, who had been searching the city for his friend, fearful of what he would do, had meantime arrived, and they at once went to the telephone and asked the operator to get a doctor. An antidote was administered by Dr. Earl Eames. A Jewel City ambulance was summoned and he was rushed to the County hospital where he died.

Barney Wonch had been employed by C. F. Steppler for the past three years as a shingler, it was learned. For some time he had been despondent. Saturday afternoon he came to Mr. Steppler's house and tried to get his employer to go with him on a hunting trip. Mr. Steppler said he had other plans. It was after this that he returned to rooms at 306 North Central avenue and had the long talk with his friend Moore about his love affair.

The Tides of Fashion

Up-to-the-minute style news gathered and sent to Pendroy's by one of the world's foremost fashion magazines.

EXTREMELY tailored lines, often in double-breasted effects, are manifest in coats, suits and dresses. Dobbs launches an emphatically new coat on slender lines with all the attributes of smart French tailoring. It is of imported tweeds or of the season's new fabrics. Its double-breasted effect, belt across the back and buttoned square patch pockets placed extremely low, give the coat a decidedly attractive boyish swagger.

A smart woman on Fifth Avenue was glimpsed wearing gloves the cuffs of which were outlined in mother-of-pearl.

NEW imported purses are a man's wallet size in real glace lizard or crocodile leather. Besides a mirror it includes five compartments, though very flat.

PASTEL colors replace white for sports ensembles. Rodier stresses gray for tailored clothes. All dressmakers are showing printed chiffon in afternoon and evening models. Cravats are the note for neckwear.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—The "square toed" cop is about to come into his own. Chief of Police Heath and members of his staff have issued orders that all policemen shall wear blue and olive drab uniforms, which are standardized and heavy lace shoes which will take the place, in the uniformed ranks, of patent leather pumps, oxfords, sandals and other dress shoes said to be worn by many beat men. In summer tan lace shoes will be the order. In winter black lace shoes will be required.

STORAGE TANK PARK IDEA HINDERED

City Manager Throws Cold Water on Hopes of East Glendale

Cold water from the Maple street reservoir was dashed upon the hopes of east Glendale for converting that "antiquated" storage tank into a city park, when City Manager Virgil B. Stone announced:

"This reservoir may be old, but it is none the less an essential link in the municipal water line and will not be given up until all the mains in the Tropico district have been replaced by high-pressure cast iron pipe that can carry the flow of the larger reservoirs. Work will soon be under way replacing mains on Palmer and Acacia avenues, but it will be years before all the mains in this district have been replaced by high-pressure pipe.

Up To Taxpayers

"It is my opinion, furthermore, that the city would not be justified in transferring this property from the public service department to the park department, without reimbursing the former, as it is as much an asset as the power plant. Of course, if the people want the Maple street reservoir for a park, they are bound to get it. The taxpayers own the property and it is up to them to say what they want us to do with it.

"I am satisfied, however, that the people who are agitating the strongest for the project at the present time, will be the very ones to raise the loudest protest against it, when they find out what it will cost to convert the reservoir into a park."

Branded Eyesore

Residents of East Glendale who are agitating for the project, among them E. M. Ingledue, hold that the Maple street reservoir is antiquated and can better serve the city as a park site. Concerning the project, Mr. Ingledue said:

"It is the biggest eyesore in our end of the city, whereas it could be made into an outstanding beauty spot. It is true that it is city property and cannot be sold without a mass meeting. We aim to get action out of the City Council on the matter. If the property owners will back us up, we will have a park there without further ado."

INCREASE ACREAGE

ATLANTA, Feb. 2.—The acreage to be planted to bright leaf tobacco in Georgia this year indicates a crop of at least 75,000,000 pounds. It is estimated tobacco culture has attracted at least 1,000 new farmers to the state.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Improvements in a city are worthy of comment. Glendale steadily is making progress at a rate so rapid that residents of other communities literally gasp in amazement—and are won by "the fastest growing city in America."

Glendale avenue is going to celebrate the installation of ornamental lights which followed the paving of that thoroughfare.

Central avenue residents will have cause for rejoicing in the paving and widening of that main artery of travel.

And now comes the news that Los Angeles is going to submit a bond issue to its electorate which will include a sum set aside for the building of a new Glendale boulevard bridge.

The Los Feliz road bridge is under construction; the plans for Riverside drive are ready and work is delayed only until such a time as flood control conditions will make it safe to build along Los Angeles river. It is also planned to extend Lake street from Burbank into Los Angeles as a truck highway paralleling San Fernando road.

Sycamore canyon drive, Glen Oaks boulevard, Hill drive and a half dozen other scenic drives have been completed recently in Glendale giving new vistas and making available many more fine residential sites.

A sewer system is in course of construction; new school bonds are being advocated to supply needed buildings; and structural needs are being met in a gratifying manner here.

It is good to review these many blessings and see the newcomers impressed by splendid optimism of the people here.

From Pennsylvania, Missouri, Canada, Illinois and New York you will find new arrivals who have purchased homes in Glendale within the last few days, according to one real estate man with whom the writer talked.

The real estate market is active and people are moving from Hollywood and Los Angeles to live in this community, you will also note.

However, we lose to Hollywood and Pasadena and Los Angeles once in a while, but what's the difference, so long as no one returns to the frozen east because of our indifference toward their welfare.

Glendale soon is going to be able to supply the tourists with all the comfortable and convenient hotel accommodations required.

It is meet that the Chamber of Commerce and Realty board and individuals let that fact be known.

Invite the public to come to Glendale this spring and summer.

And if you have Shriner friends in the east coming to the conclave in Los Angeles tell them to bring their families along and spend a month or more on the Pacific coast.

You can include your invitation in every personal letter. You can emphasize the desirability of Glendale by mailing copies of The Glendale Evening News.

WORLD'S END PROPHECY DENIED

Seventh Day Adventists Take Exception to 'Reformed' Woman's Prediction

Emphatic exception to the prediction of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen that the world will come to an end Friday, February 6, is taken by Glendale leaders of the Seventh-Day Adventist church, notably Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union conference.

Mrs. Rowen is prophetess of the Reformed Seventh-Day Adventist church, 1112 Gower street, Hollywood. She has thrown the religious world in general, and the Adventist denomination in particular, into turmoil by her sensational forecast that "Christ will revisit the earth next Friday and it will be the end of the world."

Without Foundation

This prophecy is without Scriptural foundation, declared Elder McElhany in an exclusive interview with The Glendale Evening News in which he stated:

"We repudiate the teachings of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen in their entirety. We have no faith in her predictions and so-called prophecies and object to being identified with her movement and the 'reformed' Seventh-Day Adventist church. We are no part of any such movement.

"Above all, we repudiate her time-setting. While we believe in the second coming of the Lord, we hold that He only knows when that time will be. For anyone to attempt to set the time is contrary to our most basic teachings. The Bible, Matthew, 24:36, reads:

" 'But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only.'

Action Deplored

"That is but one of many Scriptures on which the Seventh-Day Adventist faith is founded. We deplore Mrs. Rowen's prophecies and regret that our church much bear the stigma of being thought by the uninformed to subscribe to any such teachings.

"Mrs. Rowen was at one time a member of the Seventh-Day Adventist church but was disfellowshipped in 1918, for teaching fanaticism. Her latest move, that of attempting to predict the sec-

World Ends In 4 Days---Maybe!

Some People Seem Rather Excited

Don't Prepare For Poorhouse!

By GIL A. COWAN
Of The Evening News Staff.

There are only four days left—

A mere matter of ninety-six hours—

Provided you read this on Blue Monday—

And then, according to a Mrs. Rowen, who halis herself as a prophet, and has convinced countless others that she knows what she is talking about—the world is coming to an end Friday, February 6.

Your imagination can run wild

if it wants. Your belief in this woman's prophecy relative to the Biblican promise of the Son of God reappearing can sway you to sell your earthly goods and prepare for eternity, but—

Such prophesies have been made before in recent years. They have never come to pass. The Seventh Day Adventist church, of which Mrs. Rowen once was a member, repudiates her.

With malice towards none, and in the most kindly manner may the writer not suggest to thos who are contemplating material action, such as selling real estate, or jewels, or forgetting to provide for the hereafter—after Friday, do not prepare for the poorhouse.

It has been reported by real estate men in this city that people here are following Mrs. Rowen's revelation. It is indeed difficult to deny one a religious belief, particularly in the United States, but those who are sensible will continue the even tenor of their ways and will find "Business as Usual" next Saturday morning.

Scientific argument, Biblical quotation, logic and history combined cannot convince the cultist to the contrary, perhaps, but sensible people will go about their business and ignore those who insist upon selling their property this week because "the world is coming to an end." So much for that.

Unfortunately, it is necessary for newspapers to upset these "bogeys" in order to maintain the economic balance of the community, state, nation and world.

Of local interest, also, in the way of a senseless scare is the situation existing in Casa Verdugo, north of Glendale.

Many good people are reported by a high public official to be living in fear of "bomb plotters" as the result of Attorney Ernest M. Torchia's Christmas gift package permanently injuring him.

It stands to reason that the package, which was mailed from San Francisco, was directed at the man by a personal enemy, and not toward the community in which he resided by any local organized gang of bomb plotters.

Further, the package was mailed to his office, and not to his home. It was a diabolical act, and yet officers are satisfied that the criminal will be brought to justice, if he has not already fled the country.

As for tales told by scared young men, for some reason or other; as for gossip passed over the back fences, no resident of Casa Verdugo, or Glendale, for that matter, need give thought to any personal danger from any of Torchia's alleged enemies. So forget it.

Local Gas Executives Attend National Meet

Today, tomorrow and Wednesday of this week will be held meetings in Los Angeles and San Diego of the executive council of the American Gas association, a national organization, and the Pacific Coast Gas association, composed of those in the gas industry on the Pacific coast. Considerable interest is being shown in these meetings, and the following local gas men will attend: S. C. Singer, division manager; G. W. Hackley, W. G. H. Russell, R. E. Haun, H. E. Davidson, L. L. Biggs, Eugene Roose and T. H. Tiffany.

One of the best things to take to cure that important feeling is an honest inventory of the mental stock on hand.

Little Players Put on Play for Boy Scouts

Young people from the Little Players' studio, 1412 South Brand boulevard, accompanied by the director, Miss Hazel Campbell, motored to Oro Vista near Sunland, Saturday night and put on a benefit program for the Boy Scouts there. A one-act play, entitled "In Want of a Servant" was presented, with characters taken by Mr. and Mrs. L. Lloyd, Irene and Ray Gieb, Adele Lloyd, Beatrice Fear, Garnette Campbell. Readings were given by Miss Lloyd, Miss Hazel Campbell, Messrs. Gieb and L. Lloyd and a costume dance by Miss Lloyd and Irene Gieb. After the program the Glendale visitors were guests at an oyster supper.

Friday night the pupils of Miss Campbell gave a recital at the home of Mrs. Berkley Bryant, 1432 Kellam street, Los Angeles, before seventy invited guests. Two one-act plays were presented by members of the class in dramatics, "The Burglar Alarm" and "In Want of a Servant." Mrs. R. N. Stryker, gave a character sketch, "Waiting for the Train." Irene Gieb and Adele Lloyd danced the Argentine tango; Thalia Wilson gave a reading and Ray Gieb, a reading from the poems by Robert Service.

If a woman yearns to flirt a little, she can easily persuade herself that her husband doesn't understand her.

ART SOCIETY TAKES NEW QUARTERS

Meeting Place Changed to Music Salon; Program Given Yesterday

The Glendale Art association has changed its place of meeting from the juvenile room of the public library to the salon in the Van Grove music studio at 337 North Brand boulevard. Yesterday an exhibit of paintings by local artists was held, and members and friends were out in large numbers to enjoy the occasion.

Robert Noble Burnham, sculptor, who recently closed an exhibit at the Biltmore, in Los Angeles, spoke on "The Service of Art" and "How Art Can Serve the Community," saying: "Whatever a man does is primarily a service to the community and upon the quality of service depends in a measure his success.

"Art is the expression of longing for beauty. Things that make life beautiful are the ones that make life happy. Art is the messenger or means of conveying expression of our feelings. Grecian art was the language of the dominent impulse of the times and expression of religion. So were all great art works of the past. Gothic art expressed basic religious thought of the period. Art of today is different. Commercialism has been the dominant spirit for the past hundred years. Present civilization is founded on this spirit of commercialism. Where art was once classed as a luxury it is becoming a necessity of the age. Many phases of life today are open to the artist as means of expressing the service of art in relation to the community."

The speaker, who is established in Berkeley, expressed surprise

For Council

ED F. HEISSER, the seventh to receive more than fifty nominations in The Glendale Evening News' nominations for City Council campaign, now being conducted. Who's next?

When the Glendale Evening News announced that it would receive nominations for city councilmen, it was stated that all who received fifty or more nominations would have their pictures published, also a brief biography. It happens that Ed F. Heisser is the seventh proposed candidate to receive fifty or more nominations, so his picture appears above and following is a brief story about him.

Ed F. Heisser, 351 Riverdale drive, came to Glendale three years ago. At that time he organized the Independent Lumber Co., located at 522 North San Fernando road, serving as secretary and general manager of this concern. Mr. Heisser has been associated with the lumber business virtually all of his life. Prior to coming to Glendale and establishing himself in the lumber industry here, he spent ten years in the same business at Fargo, N. D.

Mr. Heisser was born in Minneapolis and received his early education in that city. He has traveled extensively throughout the United States and other countries including many in Europe.

Mr. Heisser is prominent in Masonic circles. In addition to his many other Masonic connections, he was one of the organizers of the Glendale Shrine club and served as its first president. Mr. Heisser is also a member of the Elks and Knights of Pythias.

SISTER POLLY CANDIES IN CONTEST

Toy Balloons to Figure In Unique Stunt by Local Sweets Merchant

A spectacular contest in which the boys and girls of Glendale will release thousands of toy balloons bearing numbers that will bring valuable prizes to those whose tiny air argonauts travel farthest over the countryside is announced by Fred Sturgess, founder and president of Sister Polly, Inc., 223 South Brand boulevard, makers of quality chocolates. This unique event is scheduled to take place at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, February 14, and every boy and girl in the city is invited to participate, entirely free of charge and with no obligation attached.

The functioning of this unique method chosen to advertise Sister Polly confections is outlined by Mr. Sturgess as follows: The children will gather outside the headquarters of the firm at the appointed hour and will be given inflated toy balloons, each numbered and bearing a card with Sister Polly's address and telephone number, requesting the finder to communicate at once the exact hour and place the balloon came to earth and mail the card back as evidence. With each balloon a card will be given, bearing a corresponding number. The children will release their balloons

Daily Greeting to News Readers

BEWARE OF—
The boy who treats his sweetheart better than he treats his mother.
The salesman who must resort to profanity to strengthen his sales talk.
The advertisement that promises too much too quickly.
The woman who is more expert in making up her face than her mind.

PLEA FOR TOLERANCE

We often repeat the aphorism that "it takes all kinds of people to make a world," but we do not consider the significance of this old saying when we are talking about our neighbors. If we realized that this variety in human beings was a wise provision of nature to save us from everlasting boredom and ennui we should have more tolerance for each other, we would not be so likely to brand the one who differs from us as "peculiar" or "eccentric."

No two people are born alike and the most curious thing about us is that so many of us are able to hold the same opinions on so many subjects as to group ourselves together in organizations of large proportions.

One of the favorite subjects of debate between schoolboys is whether heredity or environment has the most influence upon the individual. We believe the question has not been settled to the satisfaction of everyone, but we do know that the influences that surround the life of a child have a tremendous bearing upon his after life.

A man drilled from childhood in the tenets of orthodox Christianity is more than likely to hold to such beliefs throughout his life. One who has not had such training may differ from him. And they may both be men of intelligence, able to reason things out for themselves. Some people question the value of Christianity because there are so many denominations among Christian people. The wonder is that there are so few, since no two people are exactly alike. Fundamentally, the Christian churches are the same, but different types of people place different constructions upon scriptural passages and they demand different methods of worship. It is sad that since we know "it takes all kinds of people to make a world" we should ever be bigoted or intolerant.

People differ in other matters besides religion. Each one has a right to his own opinion, to think out his own problems and come to his own conclusions in his own way.

SELF-ADVERTISING

There was a time when it was thought unethical and in poor taste for an individual to dwell upon his own ability and merit. But today he might as well have no ability as not to be able to proclaim it to the world. He may have all the qualifications necessary for any work, but unless he has a good pair of lungs to blow his own horn he cannot get the job or hold it if he does get it.

Competition is so strong these days, there are so many wanting to do the same things that the one who is modest and would prefer to show what he can do rather than tell about it stands no chance at all.

This is the power of advertising, that if you have the means of keeping your name before the public long enough it will believe you have merit whether you have it or not. On the other hand, you may have the ability of an Edison or a Ford, but if you can't get into the newspapers or get the attention of the public you may as well curl up and die.

It used to be sheer merit that determined the status of a man in the working world. Today it is lung power. In this age of competition and publicity it is not how you push the job but how far you can push yourself into the limelight.

PAYING OUR DEBTS

Much of the worry, trouble and friction in the world arises from the habits of those who have never learned to meet their obligations, financial or otherwise, people who make contracts and forget about them and so are never able to pay their debts, of whatever character they may be.

A man signs a note or makes a promise to pay a bill on a certain date and promptly adopts as his motto, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." When the appointed day comes he cannot pay and of course he should not be blamed, for he has not the money.

The man who neglects to support his family, the woman who allows pleasure and ease to come between her and her duty to her husband and children, the employer who does not pay his help and the worker who falls down on the job, all belong to this class.

Only criminals and defectives are greater liabilities to society than the men and women who fall down on their promises and make no effort to meet their obligations.

CLEAN-UP TIME COMING

With the coming of warmer weather the feeling of spring creeps into our blood and bones. Spring does not always bring with it a feeling of lassitude and the malady known as spring fever. Very often the passing of winter is responsible for quite a spurt of ambition on the part of the home-owner. He wants to get out of doors and clean up the premises that have been somewhat neglected during the winter.

Not the least of Glendale's claims to distinction is that of being a clean city, both as to its morals and its physical aspects. The thing for us to do is to guard this reputation very jealously. It may be a little early to talk of spring cleaning, for we may look for more rain, but it is none too soon to plan for it. The time is not far distant when vacant lots grown to grass and weeds and covered with paper and other rubbish and debris will be fire menaces as well as very unsightly.

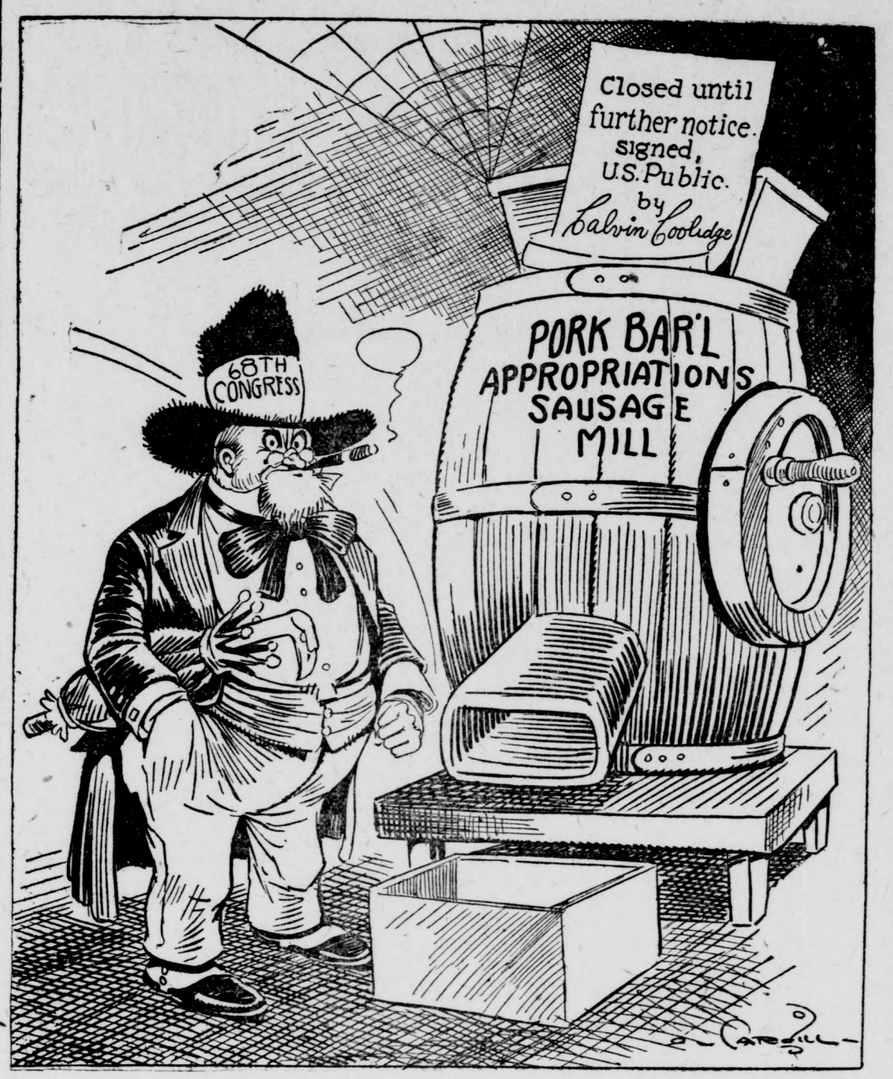
At least we can rake up the back yard, trim up the shrubbery and the lawn and make inquiries of our dealer and our painter about painting the buildings on our premises.

THE HARD TASK

Many times the spirit shown by the American boys in the late war has been commented upon and commended. They were not fighters, but they had a job of fighting to do and they were "rarin'" to get at it and get it over as soon as possible. Someone has called this the American characteristic. At any rate it is a good qualification for anyone to possess. If there is a difficult or disagreeable task to perform, why prolong the agony by postponing it?

Satisfaction, exhilaration and strength for the next job comes from a difficult piece of work well done. Postponement only weakens the will of the individual, and dread and worry exaggerate the difficulties of the job. Of disagreeable work, Charles Kingsley said, "Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best will breed in you temperance, self-control, diligence, strength of will, content and a hundred other virtues which the idle never know."

NO GROUND-HOG DAY FOR THIS PARTY!



The Illinois Idea

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Illinois is in the process of developing a new idea.

It is to have a new state penitentiary which is to be at Stateville, some distance from Joliet. Its purpose is said to be "To provide for delinquents a system of training with a view to cure and ultimate prevention of crime, and to make them useful citizens." It is an attempt to get away from the old prison plan and design. Its object, as stated above, is the ultimate cure of the criminal.

Its program aims at the rehabilitation rather than the mere punitive handling or treatment of the criminal.

It is now generally thought that a prison is only a place where transgressors are sent to be confined and for safe keeping. But the Illinois idea is to design a prison to be such a place as shall develop character and alter the prisoner.

It is recognized that confinement within barriers is a necessity, but the rehabilitation of the man and his return to society as an asset is the final objective.

To attain this objective there must first be healthful living conditions. The second requirement is that of security of confinement. The third is segregation, and the fourth is the progressive merit system.

There are five grades of prisoners—A, B, C. D, E. Upon entering the prison all are placed in the C grade. It is possible for them to work up to B or A and down into D or E. They do this by their conduct and workmanship and also by their general disposition, mental attitude and effort. After continued progress toward improvement they come before the parole board and are eligible to parole at the appointed time.

The cell houses are built upon a new plan. Each house is circular and has a tower upon it from which the guard can have a clear view of the interior of each cell at all times. There is also at his hand the means of locking and unlocking the cells by hydraulic pressure.

Each prisoner is given a cell by himself and his conditions of life in it are such as to vastly decrease the menace of tuberculosis, which has always been the dreaded disease of this penitentiary.

It is located about six and a half miles northwest of the old Joliet prison. It contains a yard of sixty-four acres surrounded by a smooth concrete wall thirty-three feet high. All the buildings are of fireproof construction and have been largely constructed by inmate labor under competent supervision.

The outcome of this idea will be worth studying from a prison standpoint.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as a fortunate day, for the sun in benefic aspect dominates. Mercury and Venus are adverse.

All who desire positions or promotions should seek their future good fortune under this rule, which makes for peculiarly satisfactory placements.

It is held to be most promising for those who aspire to political preferment. President Coolidge is to make appointments that carry surprises, it is prophesied.

There is promise for all who hold the reins of power. Governors and persons in lesser authority should benefit.

Women are subject to rather unfavorable influences while this configuration prevails and should not push any of their business interests.

Bad tidings regarding some ambitious project pushed by reformers are prognosticated. Club women are to be disappointed at this time.

While increased interest in dress will be marked among men as well as women, importers and designers should be cautious in providing spring stocks.

All through this month there may be manifested a leaning toward comfort and luxury, even among persons who cannot afford unnecessary expenditures.

Many failures in theatrical adventures are indicated and women are to be more fortunate than men in the writing and production of plays.

The coming eclipse of the moon is read as presaging severe earthquake shocks in various places.

Unfortunately, there is no promise that the reign of crime will cease, for manslaughter and cases of shocking violence are foretold.

Conflagrations of unusual extent and causing heavy losses are to take place in various cities.

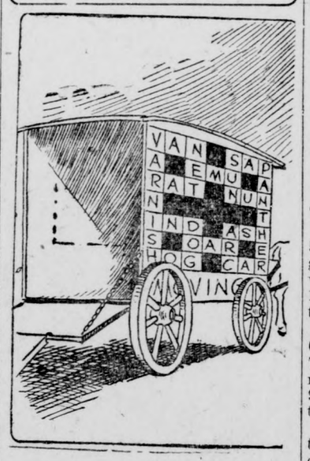
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED



Today's Poem

HABITAT

I build a house I call my own
To shut the city out,
With brick and mortar, wood and stone
I hedge myself about.

With bread and sweet philosophy
I arm myself within,
That I may view composedly
The city's dirt and sin.

But see, one window opens wide—
And may it never close—
For through it like a mighty tide
The city's music flows.

The wheels of work, the tears of sin—
Laughter to shake the skies,—
And I who at the window lean
Am grown a little wise.

PHONE ATTACHMENT

In Paris a new attachment has been put on all telephones that record calls at the central office in the order in which they are received and the new invention is such that every time you jiggle the receiver to get attention you are put just that much further down the line. If twelve receivers are lifted off the hook in order, though close together, the central operator can tell just which one came in first.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

To live a life that shall be entirely prudent and discreet, and to draw from experience all the instruction that it affords, it is requisite to be constantly thinking back—to make a kind of recapitulation of what we have done. We must be able constantly to recall our impressions and sensations, to compare our former with our present judgments—what we have set before us and struggled to achieve, with the actual result and satisfaction we have obtained.

To do this, it seemed to Schopenhauer, is to get a repetition of the private lessons of experience—lessons which are given to every one.

"Experience," Schopenhauer observed, "may be looked upon as a kind of test, to which reflection and knowledge form the commentary. Where there is a great deal of reflection and intellectual knowledge, and very little experience, the result is like those books which have on each page two lines of text to forty lines of commentary. A great deal of experience with little reflection and scanty knowledge, gives us books like those of the 'editio Bipontina,' where there are no notes and much that is unintelligible."

The advice here given is on a par with a rule recommended by Pythagoras—to review, every night before going to sleep, what we have done during the day.

To live at random, in the hurly-burly of business or pleasure, without ever reflecting upon the past, is to have no clear idea of what we are about: and a man who lives in this state will have chaos in his emotions and certain confusion in his thoughts; as is soon manifest by the abrupt and fragmentary character of his conversation, which becomes a king of mince-meat.

A man will be all the more exposed to this fate in proportion as he lives a restless life in the world, amid a crowd of various impressions and with a correspondingly small amount of activity on the part of his own mind.

And in this connection, it will be in place to recall Schopenhauer's observation, that, when events and circumstances which have influenced us pass away in the course of time, we are unable to bring back and renew the particular mood or state of feelings which they aroused in us; but we can remember what we were led to say and do in regard to them; and this forms, as it were, the result, expression and measure of those events.

"We should therefore," he opines, "be careful to preserve our thoughts at important points in our life; and herein lies the great advantage of keeping a journal."

Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across)

Word 1. The region farthest north.
Word 5. "It isn't — rain, you know,
It's — violets."
Word 6. Famous motion picture comedian.
Word 7. Farm animals.

(Running Down)

Word 1. One of the continents.
Word 2. A great city in the middle west.
Word 3. They form at the eaves when the snow melts and freezes.
Word 4. A synonym for the word in capitals in this sentence: "This corporation had its REPRESENTATIVES in ever ysection of the country."

NOME IN GRIP OF INCREASE IN DISEASE

Official Health Report Shows Diphtheria Epidemic Is Spreading Outside

NOME, Feb. 2.—Nome's diphtheria epidemic, threatening to wipe out entirely the isolated settlement, was worse today with the official report of the board of health showing twenty-seven cases, twenty-eight suspects and from ninety to 100 contacts.

Two hundred cases which have not been determined officially were reported by Miss Emily M. Morgan, the public nurse who is battling with Nome's lone physician, Dr. Curtis Welch, to prevent spread of the disease.

That hundreds have been exposed in addition to the 600 residents of Nome was learned today when Dr. Welch was notified that Margaret Curran, daughter of a dog team mail carrier, who cooks at her father's roadhouse a short distance out of Nome, had been stricken with the disease. One case in Nome was contracted at the roadhouse and many others were believed to have been exposed at the same place.

Spread Feared

Travelers in all directions out of Nome were feared to have made contact with the disease and its spread to adjacent camps was regarded as probable although no cases except that of Miss Curran have been reported outside of Nome.

Increase in the number of cases and the possibility that the dreaded scourge has spread to nearby settlements caused Dr. Welch to declare today that additional shipments of anti-toxin must be shipped to Nome. He said it would probably be better to bring the next shipment in by airplane.

A shipment of 1,100,000 units of the precious remedy was made Saturday from Seattle on the steamer Alameda bound for Seward and an airplane with Roy S. Darling of Fairbanks to drive it is available at Anchorage. Darling is agent for the department of justice at Fairbanks and has been given permission of the officials to make the flight north.

Red Cross Aid

C. W. Thornton, chairman of the Nome chapter of the American Red Cross, received radio messages today from San Francisco, and other chapters of the organization offering aid. Thornton is doing valuable work assisting the health board in seeing that quarantine regulations are obeyed.

Most of the residents are remaining quietly in their homes, fearing to go outdoors. No lodge meetings or public gatherings of any kind are held and all persons have been asked to refrain from gathering in groups.

Nome May Get More Serum By Fast Airplane

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Feb. 2.—More serum for stricken Nome may be rushed from here by airplane and plans for the flights were being made today.

An airplane for the flight is available and Roy S. Darling, department of justice agent, former army aviator, will make the journey to the north. He is now at Anchorage but will return here tomorrow. The plane is being overhauled.

Coolidge Takes Hand In Nome Relief Plans

Woman, it was learned today, and the mushers did not speed out of Unalakleet until 5:30 o'clock Saturday night.

The temperature raised here during the last few hours from 22 degrees below zero to about zero. A blizzard is raging to the southward and is believed to have covered the trails to be followed by the dogs, making their progress slow.

Three relays are being used to rush the anti-toxin packet to Nome. Edward Rohn and James Kaazon hurried from here to the assistance of Leonard Seppella, champion musher of Alaska, who has carried the brunt of the long trek from Nenana. Rohn was reported to have made the last relay, and Seppella was expected to drive the dogs in the final dash into Nome.

Coolidge Takes Part

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—President Coolidge took a personal interest today in the spectacular flight of anti-toxin across the snowy wastes of Alaska to relieve an epidemic of diphtheria at Nome.

The president sent for Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth, in charge of the public health service, and inquired minutely into what the service is doing to help Nome.

Wadsworth informed Mr. Coolidge that another consignment of 1,250,000 units of anti-toxin is leaving Seattle tomorrow for the far north, and, when it reaches there, will be used in immunizing those not already stricken with the disease.

It was not feasible to attempt shipment by airplane, Wadsworth told the president.

ATWATER RESIDENTS SIGN FARE PROTEST

Petition Asking Rate Reduction Over Pacific Electric Has More Than 3000 Signatures Affixed

Three thousand persons, residents of the Atwater Park district, have already signed the petition seeking lower street car fares to downtown Los Angeles. With this number of signatures already attached and many more to be secured, a strong case in favor of lower fares can soon be presented before the State Railroad commission, in the estimation of officers of the Atwater Community Improvement association.

A. Larson, executive committeeman, is in charge of the petition. It is pointed out in the protest against present fares charged by the Pacific Electric, that the distance to Atwater is less in miles than the distance to Hollywood. Nevertheless the latter has considerably lower fares. The petition asks that rates comparing with those on the Hollywood line be allowed Atwater patrons of the road.

Association to Meet

Ornamental electroliers, street car fares, and bridges are among the leading topics to be taken up at the regular meeting of the Atwater Community Improvement association tonight. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Neighborhood Christian church on Edenhurst avenue, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

The matter of electric street lights will consume much attention. Residents of Glendale boulevard declare two-light standard companies, the Westinghouse Electric and the Marble-Lite Co., have solicited their names to petitions asking the City Council to proceed with installation of the lights. Many have signed petitions favoring both companies, it is said. They have asked that the improvement association take up the matter and determine on one kind of a standard.

L. T. Rowley, chairman of the highways and bridges committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, will speak at the meeting on co-operative action between Atwater and Glendale in securing adequate bridge facilities over the Los Angeles river.

Epworth League Rally Set for Friday Night

A district rally of Epworth League members of M. E. church, South, of Southern California will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church. Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of the First Methodist church, will speak.

Java now has 10,000 miles of metaled roads.

Players Open Tonight In 'Wedding Bells' Hit

The Dobinson Players will present to a capacity house tonight the New York comedy success, "Wedding Bells." So great was the demand of the public to see this comedy that the house was sold out several days ago.

Mary Worth has the role of a captivating divorcee, and Joseph McManus will be seen as an undiplomatic bridegroom. The The winsome bride-to-be is portrayed by Mary Isabelle Alpaugh. With the good support of all the Dobinson Players' "Wedding Bells" promises one of the best mirth-providing comedies offered by the Glendale dramatic stock company.

"Wedding Bells" is the first play offered by the Dobinson Players under the new six-day-a-week stock program. An added attraction to the presentation Feb. 13 will be a valentine party with supper and dance after the show. Many of Glendale's younger set have already made reservations for this gala event. A super-jazz orchestra will be on hand.

Carl Ganvoort, opera and concert baritone, will be the soloist at the Playhouse theatre after the first act of "Wedding Bells," which holds its premiere this evening.

Mr. Ganvoort studied abroad in the capital cities of Europe, and on his return appeared in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." He is well known in local music circles, having sung at many clubs in and about Los Angeles.

Why We Buy In Glendale

The factors that have contributed to Glendale's remarkable advance, including the rise in realty values, have been many. But the fact that the citizens on the whole give their trade to the home stores is not the least of these causes.

Men and women who have been wise enough to buy property in Glendale are intelligent enough to know that when they go out of town to buy things they could get here they are working against their own interests.

Your home or your vacant lot, your business building or other income property is worth more in Glendale than it would be in almost any other city in Southern California. In part this is due to Glendale's wide-awake business men, up-to-date business policies and attractive business houses.

The business that you give to the home stores is reacting upon the value of your real estate holdings. In helping to build up Glendale's retail centers and in contributing to her business life you have automatically helped to increase the value of all Glendale property, including your own.

Your trade helps the Glendale business man to put up a good front and make a good impression with his store and the showing that he makes and the service that he gives redounds to the credit of Glendale as a whole.

We are dependent upon each other. We cannot and do not wish to live to ourselves and to isolate ourselves from our fellows. As community dwellers we must help each other and co-operate with each other. The advertisers on this page are working for 100 per cent co-operation between merchant and citizen.

Several changes in rules for the piano contests in the Glendale district Eisteddfod were made in a meeting of members of the piano committee here Saturday. Two new classifications were made for the Glendale district, one being a department for children from 8 to 10 years of age and a second division for children from 12 to 14 years of age. Several other questions were discussed, but no action will be taken until word is received from the general committee in Los Angeles, which is in charge of all piano competition for the California Eisteddfod.

Members of the piano committee for Glendale contests are: Mrs. M. O. Sparrow, chairman; Mrs. Grace Lovejoy, Mrs. L. F. Haseltine, Burbank; Miss Alberta Green, Mrs A. Cunningham, Mrs. L. W. Bosserman, Wesley Kuhnle, Glendale; Mrs. M. D. Baker, Lankershim; Mrs. J. B. West, Eagle Rock; Mrs. Minnie Dunn, Tujunga.

ANTHRITIS (INFLAMMATION OF THE JOINTS)

In the January 10 issue of the American Medical Journal is an article written by Drs. Cecil and Archer on the arthritis of the menopause. I know from my correspondence that the material contained in this paper will be exceedingly interesting to a large number of my clan, so I am going to give a resume of it. I am including it in the reducing series for reasons which you will see as you read.

There were, in the last three years, 350 cases of anthritis admitted to the Cornell Pay Clinic in New York City. Drs. Cecil and Archer grouped them as follows:

First The frankly infectious type, usually seen in young people and characterized by inflammatory conditions around the joints and by the fact that the symptoms skip from joint to joint. Spots of infection elsewhere in the body were readily demonstrated in most of these cases.

Second: The specific joint inflammations, including tuberculosis, gonococcal and syphilitic arthritis.

Third: Monoarticular (one joint) arthritis, usually in the hip, occasionally in the shoulder; a destructive arthritis of unknown cause, but probably infectious. This type occurs most frequently in middle aged men, and is oftnn associated with a preceding injury. It is extremely resistant to treatment.

Fourth: True arthritis deformans, a progressive and destructive disease of the joints characterized by ankylosis (locking of the joint, and deformity.

Fifth: Senile arthritis, occurring in elderly people and characterized by mild overgrowth changes in the larger joints and in the hands. This type is extremely chronic and progresses very slowly.

Sixth: Menopause arthritis, chronic polyarthritis (poly: many) of OBESE middle-aged women, occuring at or just after the menopause and characterized by a persistent stiffness or pain in the joints affected.

The paper of Drs. Cecil and Archer was on this last arthritis. They went on to state that aside from the close connection with the menopause, the occurrence of OBESITY was the most frequently associated condition. The average weight for a series of 50 patients was 182½ pounds; the average weight for that series should have been 141 thus making an average of 41 pounds overweight.

Many of the patients admitted that they were hearty eaters. A considerable number confessed to a fondness for breads and sweets. None of the patients gave a history of rheumatic fever.

The knees were the joints most frequently involved but the fingers, shoulders, feet and lumbar spine were often implicated. The physical appearance of the patients was quite characteristic. They were almost always overweight, sometimes to a marked degree. The abdominal wall was prominent and there was also excessive fat around the hips and breasts. Bad posture and flat feet were extremely common applications.

TREATMENT: You can guess it: Reduction of the weight. You know how to do that if you have been following the column. Other measures in the treatment were: heat, in the form of hot baths, Turkish baths, baking and sun baths. Massage was used in a large percentage of the cases.

The medical treatment I won't speak of because that is not my province. Medication was given, but between you and me the results came from the reduction of the weight rather than from the medication. We know. We have had too many letters from those who have suffered similarly and have recovered when the weight was reduced, to doubt.

Tomorrow—Reducing by Chewing.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

DO YOU SLEEP WELL

Do you sleep well? You're very lucky if you do. If you don't you must expect such things as dull eyes, a dry, poor looking skin and lustreless hair, and an irritable temper in the bargain.

Sleeplessness is often a habit. Some of us inherit insomnia, at least, a tendency toward it, then we have to be careful, and as the poets used to put it, "woo slumber." Wooing slumber means going without coffee after 10 in the morning, avoiding stimulating drinks or foods or much excitement toward bedtime, and generally keeping a good tight hold upon our nervous systems.

If sleeplessness is temporary you can generally trace its cause and almost always find a cure. Of course a great sorrow may keep you from sound and healthy sleep for years, a great nervous strain will do the same until the strain is removed. If you need sleep and cannot get enough go to your doctor about it. He may give you some harmless, sedative medicines that will just push you over the brink of sleepiness so that worries and such things don't matter——

Try eating a light supper at bedtime, as that helps wonderfully if the insomnia isn't chronic. It takes the blood to the stomach. Hot weak tea does not keep many people awake though hot chocolate often does. Hot beef tea may be too stimulating. Little crackers and a hot drink of some sort may be enough. Go to bed with a hot water bottle at your feet, to draw the blood down there; that's splendid for inducing sleep. Read some frothy, frivolous short stories just to take your mind off whatever bothers you. Don't try to force sleep, you can't; forget about either sleeping or waking until you begin to yawn. Yawning in itself induces sleep I've been told. Then open the windows and turn off the light and you'll most likely go off to sleep before you know it.

Blondie—The yolk of the egg contains a great deal of sulphur which is invaluable for dandruff and other scalp troubles. The white of the egg is also valuable as it clings to the scalp and takes up oil and dandruff as it dries. Bad cases of dandruff will be helped if a little bit of olive oil is beaten into the whole egg,and all of it rubbed into the scalp before the shampoo. In either case let the mixture, or the egg, dry on the scalp for about a half hour, after which shampoo as usual. The result will be a scalp that is cleared of dandruff and very clean, and the hair will be unusually soft and glossy.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. Brown Veal en Casserole—Buy three to four pounds of knuckle of veal, cut in small pieces suitable for serving. Begin by putting one tablespoon of sugar into a hot frying pan, let melt till dark (caramelized), then add one medium-sized peeled onion cut in slices and stir till the onion is coated with the sugar. Now add four cups of boiling-hot water and let simmer for a few minutes (although the sugar will lump, these lumps will dissolve in the water in time). Now add the meat. Let it simmer for several moments in the dark liquid, then turn all into a casserole dish, cover closely, and cook till tender (about two hours). Add one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, a grating of lemon rind, and three tablespoons of flour rubbed to a paste with three tablespoons of butter (it also may be necessary to add a very little more boiling water to make this gravy). Serve as soon as the flour has thickened the liquor.

Montmartre Lyonnaise Potatoes—Peel and slice two large onions. Fry them till yellowed in four tablespoons of butter, then add three and one-half cups of sliced, cold, cooked potatoes and season with a little salt and pepper. Fry gently till the potatoes have absorbed the butter, and serve.

Cabbage au Gratin—Boil a small head of cabbage rapidly in salted water for 30 minutes, cut in small pieces. When cooked, cut in still smaller pieces. Make the following sauce: Melt two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan, stir in one and one-half cups of sweet milk, add the hard-boiled yolk of one egg, mashed, and season with one teaspoon of salt and a pinch of pepper. Add the cabbage to this liquid, and when well mixed turn all into a baking dish or casserole. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake till well browned in a hot oven. Serve hot.

Eggs Benedict—This dish is supposed to be made by steaming eggs over boiling water in a special kind of pan which comes divided off into circles (to keep the eggs in a perfectly circular shape, like a poached egg cooked in a ring). But the average housewife has no money for the purchase of special pans of this sort, so I suggest that she put water in a frying pan, place a cookie cutter in the pan, and drop the raw egg into the cookie cutter letting it poach till quite hard inside this circle. Serve on toast with a hot cream sauce colored yellow by the addition of uncooked egg-yolk. (Just the ordinary thick cream sauce.)

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

Ten Readers of Evening News Get Airship Ride

ten lucky persons whose coupons were drawn from the keg by Mr. Kinner and given a free ride were: Mrs. M. C. Chaney, 1818 East Glenoaks boulevard; Alfred Morris, jr., 106 North Adams street; A. S. Chase, 400 Riverdale drive; Joe Malone, 540 West Stocker street; B. Pinkney, 1261 Allen street; J. R. Clotfelter, 320 West Lexington drive; C. H. Cross, 208 North Jackson street; H. S. Kelly, 135 Cypress street, Burbank; J. A. Cheney, 1818 East Glenoaks boulevard, and Alfred Frankhauser, 233 South Bear street.

Five of these persons were taken up by Dr. T. C. Young in his aerial limousine, "The Argonaut." After a flight over Glendale and surrounding country, the limousine made a perfect landing, but in taxiing across the field, the tailskid hit a bump and broke off, thus making it impossible to use the plane again during the afternoon.

The other five passengers were taken up in the two-seater planes: Dr. Young taking two in another of his ships, while Mr. Kinner took three in his monoplane. Mrs. Chaney rode with Mr. Kinner in his monoplane and after the flight expressed great joy and delight for the opportunity to tour among the clouds.

Ten-mile Contest

In the ten-mile race staged by Mr. Kinner and Clyde Getchell, one of the most thrilling finishes in airplane racing was witnessed by the large crowd. Both planes took off at high speed, circled the prescribed course and kept even most of the way. Mr. Kinner was flying his monoplane while Mr. Getchell was flying a biplane. Both pilots carried passengers.

Pilot Getchell picked up a slight advantage on the last round by making a steep bank that caused the spectators to gasp. As he straightened out his plane for the home stretch, Mr. Kinner crept up a little closer with a burst of speed, but Getchell crossed the finish line a scant two feet in the lead.

Al Gilhausen, wingwalker and aerial acrobat, thrilled the crowd with a number of death-defying stunts on the wings of an airplane while soaring over the field. The plane was piloted by Clyde Getchell.

The closing event of the air rodeo was a sham battle that brought back memories of war days in France. Three planes, flying in V-formation, composed the attacking squadron. They were repulsed by anti-aircraft guns scattered about the field.

Inasmuch as Dr. Young and several other flyers will be absent from the field next Sunday delivering invitations to the mammoth air meet on March 14 and 15, there will be no air rodeo next Sunday, Mr. Kinner announced today. The field will be open, however, and there will be a group of pilots and planes on hand to take passengers aloft, he said.

Dr. Otey Says:

Your health is a valuable asset, and you owe it to yourself to investigate its laws. Until you have a thorough knowledge of osteopathy we have neither of us done our duty. People often blame the climate, their work or other conditions for their poor health when the cause is within themselves and could be removed by osteopathic measures. They often change about from one location to another, seeking health in a way that would be ludicrous if it were not so pathetic, for health must come from establishing better conditions within the body.

If your automobile refuses to render good service do you ship it to Arizona or Colorado, hoping (against your judgment) that "it will be alright in that climate?" You do not. You take it to an automotive engineer. You know that its operation is subject to certain laws which are the same in every climate. Just so, the human body should be put into the care of a "Human Engineer," the Osteopath.

The Wrath To Come

CHAPTER XXXVI

He wandered off and Grant made his way to where the deck tennis was proceeding. He sat down and watched the players for a time. Presently, without noticing who her neighbor was, Susan came and shared his seat. She gave a little start as he spoke and made an involuntary movement. Grant rose at once to his feet.

"Pray let me go away," he begged. "I am sorry that you find my presence so utterly distasteful."

He was angry with himself directly he had spoken. She only laughed at him and settled herself down more comfortably.

"Don't be absurd," she said lightly. "Only I didn't happen to notice who it was. Don't you play any of these games?"

"Sometimes."

"We're having a competition," she confided. "So far Charlie Suffolk and I have beaten everybody. Oh, I must go," she added, slipping off. "I see there is another couple ready for us."

He watched her for a moment or two and turned away. He tried other parts of the ship, but some fascination seemed to draw him always back to that little enclosed space where Cornelius Blunn lay with half-closed eyes. He had lost a great deal of his natural color and seemed somehow to have shrunken. Grant hesitated at the round glass door for a moment or two, wondering whether or not to enter. Then he realized that Blunn was asleep. He stooped down, withdrew the key from the lock of the door, and placed it in his pocket. Afterwards he walked away.

After resisting the impulse at least half a dozen times, Grant finally found his way, after dinner that evening, to the dancing deck aft. It was a very beautifully arranged space, given over in the daytime to various games, and at night covered with a specially prepared floor for dancing. The windows opened all the way round, and in hot weather the roof rolled back. From one of the window seats he watched for some little time. Susan was, as usual, surrounded by admirers, but she was unlucky in her partners. Three or four times he saw her finish a dance a little abruptly and stroll with her companion on the open portion of the deck. After watching a particularly unsuccessful effort, he made his way towards her. Although he concealed his condition admirably, no neophyte fresh from a boarding school and attending his first dance could have been more nervous.

"May I have a dance, Lady Susan?" he asked.

She looked at him without immediately replying. For a moment she was more like the Susan of Monte Carlo, even though there was something faintly resentful in her expression. It was at least feeling of a sort.

"I'm so sorry," she said, "but do you know I really can't get my feet to go tonight? I think I must have played too much tennis. Tell me, have you heard how Mr. Blunn is this evening?"

"I haven't enquired since dinner," Grant replied. "I will let you know if I hear later."

He turned away and walked out on to the open deck. There was nothing more to be done. He was in a hopeless position. There was nothing he could say to her, no complaint he could make, no excuse he could offer. He drew a wicker chair to the side of the rail, threw himself down, lit a pipe, and began to smoke. Somehow or other the tobacco tasted wrong, even the beauty of the night seemed to increase his depression. Presently he left off smoking, leaned back in his chair and closed his eyes. They were playing a waltz he used to dance with Susan. He lay still and listened.

Susan, crossing the deck in search of her father, discovered him in conversation with the Prince and Princess von Diss. She stopped and was half inclined to retreat. Gertrude, however, had already turned towards her.

"Lady Susan," she said, "I was just sending my husband to look for you. Will you come and sit with me for a moment?"

Susan glanced meaningly towards her father, who she had been told was looking for her. He mistook her appeal for help and smiled acquiescence."

"Do, Susan," he enjoined. "I only sent for you to say that I was going to the smoke room. Von Diss and I will finish our little discussion there."

Gertrude led the way towards a distant corner where there were two comfortable chairs. Susan walked by her side, apparently at her ease, but inwardly fuming. There was something about this woman which always made her feel young and unformed.

"Of course, my dear Lady Susan," Gertrude began. "I know that you detest having to talk to me. But you see it really can't be helped. My husband is meeting your father officially and, so long as my husband has decided to make me so, I am a perfectly respectable woman."

"I have had very little experience in the ethics of such matters," Susan replied. "I am content as a rule to follow my own judgment."

Gertrude settled herself quite comfortably in her chair.

"Ah, well," she sighed, "you're very young. It is just your youth which makes your judgment so absurd. You're very angry with Mr. Grant Slattery, aren't you?"

"Whatever my feelings may be with regard to Mr. Slattery, or any other man," Lady Susan rejoined quietly, "they concern—if you will forgive my saying so—myself alone."

"Very foolish," Gertrude murmured. "Listen to me, please. Poor Grant, he really is in a ridiculous position. If there weren't just a spice of tragedy attached to the situation, I am sure I should never accept the role of obvious idiot which seems thrust upon me."

"I hope you're not going to offer me any confidences," Susan begged. "I do not desire them."

"My dear Lady Prig, you're going to hear what is good for you," Gertrude continued calmly. "You can't get up and leave me, because I am an older woman, and it would be very rude of you. You probably think that when Mr. Slattery said goodby to you in Monte Carlo he knew that I was going to America with him. Well, the poor man didn't know anything of the sort."

"He didn't know?" Susan repeated incredulously. "Why, it was the night before."

"Precisely," Gertrude acquiesced. "You see, I was very fond of Grant Slattery, and I couldn't quite believe that he had lost all feeling for me. Sheer vanity, of course—for which I suffered. I knew quite well that if I had asked him to take me away he would have refused point-blank—because I had already asked him and he had refused—but I wanted to go away with him and I took a risk. I went on board his yacht as a stowaway. He hadn't the faintest idea I was there until the yacht was a day and a half out. He wouldn't have known, even then, if I hadn't nearly fainted from hunger."

Susan sat quite still for a moment. She was struggling to emulate her companion's composure.

THE GATEWAY

"Dante's Inferno," which is now showing at the Gateway Theatre today and tomorrow, has drawn wonderfully comprehensive audiences wherever it has been its privilege to show. The New York Herald and Tribune has the following to say about it:

"All the pictures which children love to gaze at and then hide their faces, shudderinig, ere they gaze again, have come to life; and moving, they are twice as awe-inspiring as they are in stills.

"William Fox turned 'Dante's Inferno' over to Edmund Goulding and asked him to make a screen story out of it. Now, Mr. Goulding has used his imagination only in concocting a modern story to hang Dante's weird vision on. In the scenes where the lower regions are showed Dante has had no collaborator.

"But we like the way Mr. Goulding has handled the thing, because he hasn't divided his picture into two distant episodes—a terrible modern sequence and an impressive fanciful sequence. A . . .melodrama . . . shows a victim sending his cherished volume of 'Dante's Inferno' to his enemy, with his curse penned on the fly leaf. The enemy reads the book avidly and ever and anon the spectators are allowed to wander with Dante in the lower regions. These scenes are extremely well done, and, used as we are to big scenes in pictures, we still sat and wondered how such things could possibly be done on a set before a camera. It is quite stupendous and the forest of suicides is especially impressive."

Wednesday will be the first showing at the Gateway Theatre of the famous picture "Gold Heels," which will be shown in conjunction with the regular Wednesday feature bill of selected vaudeville.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY BLOWS A HORN

"Toot! Toot! Toot!" sounded loudly outside of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"My goodness! What's that?" bleated Aunt Lettie, the goat lady, who was calling on Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Is that the fire engine?"

"No," answered Uncle Wiggily, with a laugh, "that is Floppy Twistytail, the piggie boy, blowing the tin horn he got for Christmas."

"Yes," added Nurse Jane, "and he blows it day in and day out, morning, noon and night, until it almost drives me crazy! There he goes again!"

Surely enough, Floppy blew:

"Toot! Toot! Tootity-oot-toot!"

The muskrat lady held her paws over her ears.

"I wish something would happen to that horn," she said.

"Oh, even piggie boys must have some fun," said Uncle Wiggily, tolerant-like and sympathizing.

"Then I wish he'd have his fun somewhere else!" squeaked the muskrat lady. She stuffed some cotton in her ears, and gave some to Aunt Lettie, who was very nervous. But Floppy went right on tooting his horn and seemed to like it.

Soon after that Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his bungalow to look for an adventure, which he did nearly every day.

The rabbit gentleman hopped over the snowy fields and through the woods, and his pink nose twinkled twice as fast because it was cold. Once the shivery wind brought tears to the bunny's eyes, and the tears froze into little marbles of ice and fell to the ground.

"It certainly is cold," said Uncle Wiggily. And just then, off behind a big oak tree, the rabbit gentleman heard some one crying.

"Boo hoo! Boo hoo!" came the sobbing sounds.

"That isn't a bad chap—they never cry," said Uncle Wiggily. "It must be one of my friends in trouble. I'll help them." He hopped over to the acorn tree and behind it stood Floppy, the piggie boy, crying and crying and crying.

"What's the matter, Floppy?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"My Christmas horn won't blow," grunted Floppy. "No matter how hard I puff into it, no sound comes out. You try, Uncle Wiggily."

So the bunny uncle tried to blow the horn, but he couldn't. No matter how much he puffed out his cheeks, no toots came from the horn. Then the bunny looked in the little end, and he looked in the big end, and he said:

"Ah, I see! There is a chunk of ice inside the horn. Tell me, Floppy, did any water get in the horn?"

"Yes, I guess some tears came in my eyes, because they were so cold," grunted the piggie chap. "And they fell in the horn, my tears did. Then when I couldn't blow my horn I cried some more."

"I see!" laughed the bunny. "The tears fell in your horn and have frozen into a chunk of ice. Until that is out the horn won't blow. But I'll soon fix it!"

Uncle Wiggily held the horn under his warm fur coat, and soon the chunk of tear ice began to melt and thaw. Then just as the bunny tried to blow the horn again, out of the bushes popped the Bob Cat.

"I'm going to nibble you!" meowed the Bob Cat.

But Uncle Wiggily aimed Floppy's horn at the bad chap like a gun and blew as hard as he could. And then, the chunk of tear ice being melted, was blown out of the horn, and "plop!" the ice hit the Bob Cat on his nose.

"Wow!" howled the Bob Cat, and away he ran.

"Toot Toot!" blew the horn, for now it was all right again.

"Oh, how glad I am!" grunted Floppy.

"And so am I," said the bunny.

And that's how Mr. Longears blew the horn, and if the sugar spoon doesn't try to jump down in the salt cellar when the cup of coffee is looking for it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Caw Caw.

Glendale Popular as College Paper Reader

Glendale citizens are receiving more "Mountain Echoes," the official paper of Pacific Union college, than any other city in the United States, according to word received from Cecil Chrisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Chrisman of 451 West Dryden street, who is attending that college located at La Jota, north of San Francisco. There are 1300 subscribers to the paper and seventy-five of these are Glendale people. Serving on the staff of "Mountain Echoes" as literary editor is Erving Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Rogers of 1900 Sycamore Canyon road. Helen Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Green of 1413 Stanley avenue, was campaign manager for the girls this year, and led them to victory over the boys.

In addition to sending "Echoes" to all parts of the United States, Pacific Union college is sending papers to Canada, South America, China, Japan, India and South Africa. Forty students from Glendale have enrolled at the college. Nine from last year's senior class of the Glendale Union academy are at the college while over one-half of all the graduates of the same academy are attending different colleges throughout the United States.

World's End Prophecy Denied by Adventists

ond coming of the Lord, is an even more regrettable occurrence than her excommunication. It is to be hoped that the general public will be quick to recognize that the Seventh-Day Adventist church, a great international protestant denomination, is in no way connected with her 'reformed' church and subscribes to none of its teachings."

Mrs. Rowen's Prophecy

Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen holds that but six days remain before the world ends. In her sensational "prophecy" she said:

"Christ will return to the earth next Friday with the sun, rising from the east and traveling through the heavens to the west. The light of Christ, as He proceeds around the globe, will strike down the wicked and elevate the elect to the kingdom of heaven."

This belief is based on the Bible in every particular save the date, Mrs. Rowen said, and that she claims was given her in a revelation direct from Christ.

Prophetess and Followers Waiting For End of World

By L. C. OWEN

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 2.—Faith is sometimes described as a thing both admirable and sublime—also sometimes blind. In a little place of worship on Tenth street here thirty-eight members of a new religious sect known as "Reformed" Seventh Day Adventists are giving what at least is a blind if not an admirable demonstration of their faith.

The little Oakland congregation are followers of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen, prophetess of their sect, who, claiming that the momentous message was delivered to her from Divine sources, has predicted the end of the world for next Friday, February 6.

In preparation for the forecast millennium, members of the tiny Oakland congregation are holding daily and nightly prayer meetings. Also, and it shows their implicit faith in the prognostications of their "prophetess," they are disposing of all such worldly goods as they possess in order, as they express it, to make themselves "humble in the eyes of the Lord."

Jesus To Appear

Next Friday night at midnight, so their prophetess has prophesied and so they believe Jesus is to make his appearance riding on a cloud in the heavens and with a great fanfare of angelic trumpets is to slowly descend toward the earth. At that time, so the prophecy runs, "the period of earthly probation shall end."

As Christ reveals himself the wicked living and wicked dead shall be killed eternally by the seven last plagues, while the righteous living and the righteous dead shall be enveloped in the cloud bearing Christ and transported to heaven."

The headquarters of the "Reformed" Seventh Day Adventists at Los Angeles are those of Mrs. Rowen. In that city there are said to be about one hundred members of the sect. Scattered through the state there are possibly a dozen more. Everywhere "reformed" Adventists are offering long hours of prayer each day and night, and are disposing of their worldly goods.

Where Cash Goes

After all worldly goods have been disposed of, it develops, all the cash that can be spared, is to be sent to the sect's headquarters at Los Angeles. There, it is said, the money is being used in sending Mrs. Rowen's divine message of the Savior's coming to all the peoples of the world.

Pastor Throws Light

Considerable light upon the strange religious organization which is in no way connected with the much older religious body known as Seventh Day Adventists, and also upon Mrs. Rowen's role as "Prophetess," is given by the Rev. P. W. Province, who is acting as pastor of the tiny Oakland congregation.

"Mrs. Rowen, our prophetess, first commenced having divine revelations in 1916," said the Rev. Mr. Province. "At that time she was a member of the regular Seventh Day Adventist church. But they refused to believe she was a prophetess so she left that organization. Others who believed in her divine power followed her and organized the 'Reformed' Adventists.

"Since that time Mrs. Rowen has had many divine revelations. She goes into a condition of suspended animation—the body becomes stiff and breathing ceases—and it is while in this state of coma that her visions come. She has made many predictions which have increased our faith in her—she foretold the death of one Catholic pope, the famine which was to sweep earth after the World War, and of earthquake, pestilence, disease and plagues which were to visit the world during 1924.

First Revelation

"Her first revelation that the world was coming to an end was received approximately eighteen months ago. Since that time we have been preparing for it—by prayer and penitence and by disposing of our worldly goods."

According to the Rev. Mr. Province, several members of his little Oakland congregation have made quite sizeable contributions to broadcasting Mrs. Rowen's message. One elderly couple, whom he named, recently sold their apartment house and contributed a large part of the proceeds to the parent church.

Sister Polly Candies In Unique Balloon Contest

into the air, retaining the cards with the numbers. In this way an exact check will be possible.

The boy whose balloon travels farthest will receive a grand prize of a $100 radio set and the girl whose balloon travels farthest will receive a grand prize of a $100 silver toilet set. The parties sending back the cards with these winning numbers will receive five-pound boxes of Sister Polly's extra special "Aristocrat" chocolates, valued at $8.50 per box.

The next twenty-five winners will receive two-pound boxes of "Aristocrat" chocolates and the next twenty-five parties sending back these winning numbers will receive one-pound boxes of the same confections.

Examples Given

If the balloon traveling farthest lands in Santa Ana, for instance, the boy or girl whose number corresponds will get the $100 prize, Mr. Sturgess explains, and the party sending back notification will receive the five-pound box of candy. A similar set of prizes will reward the child whose balloon travels next farthest and the one who reports its time and place of coming to earth. The same process will be followed in awarding the twenty-five pairs of consolation prizes.

Apart from spectacular features, the contest will have marked scientific interest, Mr. Sturgess points out, flight of the balloons indicating the direction and velocity of air currents. As an advertising "stunt" he feels that it will carry the name of Sister Polly far and wide, advertising Glendale as well in a most effectual manner. Concerning the remarkable growth of Sister Polly, Inc., Mr. Sturgess says:

"We started in business June 1, 1924, at 239 South Verdugo road, in a very small way, after making candy on a kitchen stove for several weeks and selling it from door to door. In three months, such was the excellence of our formulas and the purity of our product, we had grown to such an extent that we were obliged to move to our present location at 223 South Brand boulevard. Now, three months later, again we find ourselves with a payroll amounting to $25,000 per annum and merchandising our product from Santa Barbara to San Diego.

"This phenomenal success has been won not only by good candy but by a spirit of enterprise and co-operation that permeates the organization, for Sister Polly, Inc., comprises a community of partners, all directly interested in the success of the business we are building.

"So great has been our growth that our business has more than doubled since we moved to our present location. Representatives have been appointed in many cities throughout Southern California, and within thirty days every community from Santa Barbara to San Diego will have a representative offering our entire line.

"Many of our customers are boys and girls, so when we decided upon launching an extensive advertising campaign we sought an idea that would link up the children in our effort. The balloon contest scheduled for February 14 is the result, and we want every boy and girl in Glendale to consider himself and herself personally and cordially invited to come to our headquarters and launch these toy balloons. The prizes are valuable and the whole idea is instructive as well as entertaining."

Associated with President Fred Sturgess in the management of Sister Polly, Inc., are: John McKibben, director; John A. Paul, sales manager and director; L. W. Thomson, secretary; Mrs. C. Parsons, in charge of the retail department, and Mrs. M. Townsend, in charge of the shipping department.

Newspaper Enters In Realtors' Class Study

Members of the Glendale class, University of California extension course in real estate, on Thursday night, at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school, will study the first chapter of their textbook devoted to newspaper advertising. There are sixty-eight members enrolled here, including the livest wires among the salesmen, as well as brokers, and they are studying with interest the digest of lectures given by C. C. C. Tatum, president of the Los Angeles Realty board and past president of the California Real Estate association.

Mr. Tatum emphasizes the desirability of keeping one's name before the public, and gives helpful hints for the preparation of display and classified advertising. Any person completing the realty course and receiving diplomas is granted a broker's license without the qualification test by the state real estate department.

GLENDALE CASEYS SWAMP ALHAMBRA

Visitors Defeated 16 to 1; Locals Play Oakland Feb. 15 for Title

The Glendale Caseys had an easy time yesterday in winning the first game of the second half of the Southern California K. C. League schedule, defeating Alhambra 16 to 1. The game was played at the ball park on San Fernando road and attended by one of the largest crowds to witness a local game since the White Sox passed out of the picture.

O'Donnell, former III league hurler, was on the mound for the locals and pitched good ball, although at no stage of the game was he required to bear down. It was O'Donnell's first game with the local Caseys and he showed he had plenty of stuff on the ball. He held the visiting team to five hits and sent seven men back to the bench by the strikeout route.

Johnny Cryan proved to be the big man with the stick yesterday, getting five hits out of five trips to the plate. Eight errors on the part of Alhambra accounted for several runs by the Glendale Caseys, although the majority of runs were made on clean hits.

Will Play Oakland

The Glendale Caseys will go north week after next to meet the Oakland K. C. team at San Francisco on February 15 to decide the state championship. Oakland won the title for the first half of the season by taking two games from Alameda in the playoff. Glendale finished the first half of the season undefeated and the locals are put to repeat during the final half.

Manager Harry Manush is getting his men in shape for the northern trip and is confident of bringing the state title back to Glendale with him.

Dan O'Leary, 84-year-old walking champion of the world, circled the bases twelve times in a little under ten minutes, as an added attraction at the game yesterday afternoon. Dan uses the same system Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish runner, follows, by carrying a stop watch in one hand. The veteran walker was given a big hand by the fans as he completed his exhibition.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—There is talk going around that Eddie Cannonball Martin is not destined to hold on to his bantam weight title very long. When he won the title he pulled a surprise that caught a lot of bettors and others unawares. It was not on the cards that he should win, and yet as the battle turned out the judges could have handed in no decision other than the one they did without being so raw that even the long suffering fight patron would have started something.

It will be interesting to see what happens when Martin defends his title against Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, the Harlem bantam. The two have been matched to meet in the Garden on March 20, over the fifteen-round route.

In the meantime the fans will get a line on Rosenberg when he goes against Pete Zivic of Pittsburgh at the commonwealth A. C. in New York on February 14.

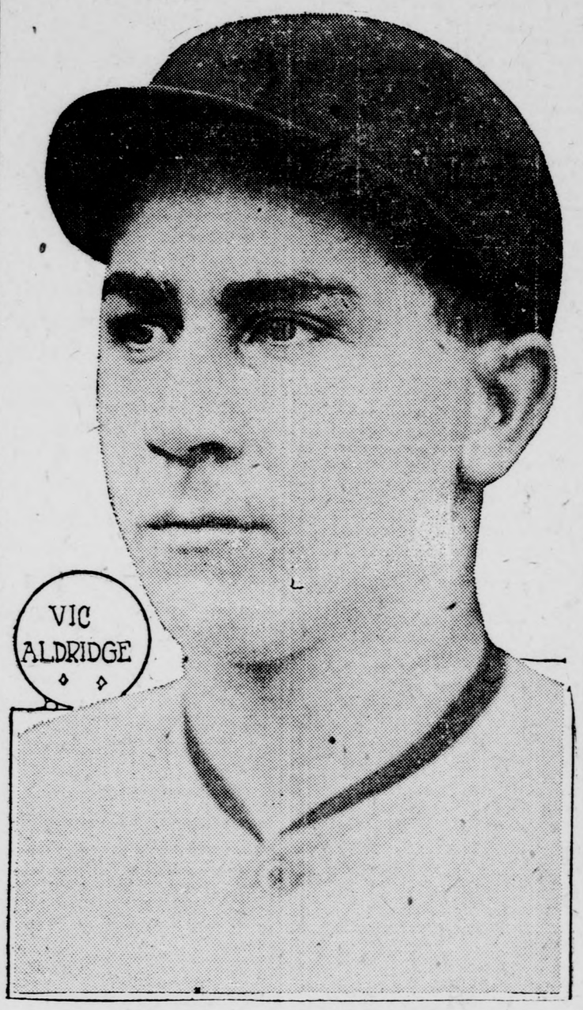
Mickey Walker says that he will start for the Pacific coast on February 6 which, seeing he has been training and keeping himself in good condition, will, he thinks, give him plenty of time to finish up for the battle with Bert Colima, the California middleweight, at Doyle's club in Vernon on February 16.

Jack Delaney, speaking of Colima, thinks that the coast boy has it in him to give Walker something more than a good workout. Walker, by the way, says he has a $20,000 guarantee from Doyle for this battle.

Pal Moran is going to meet Sid Barbarian and Charley O'Connell next month and if he makes good he will be a prominent contender in the lightweight tourney the New York boxing commission is going to hold.

Hoosier Schoolmaster

VIC ALDRIDGE, who taught school in Indiana before he broke into baseball ranks, once pitched for Los Angeles. He has been traded by the Chicago Cubs to the Pittsburgh Pirates.



By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

"The Hoosier Schoolmaster" expects to have a good year this year.

Meaning Vic Aldridge.

Few persons know that the pitcher the Chicago Cubs traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates over the winter started life as a school teacher in the rural districts of Indiana. It was his week-end pitching that won him the attention which ultimately altered his whole life. Aldridge was born in Indian Springs, Ind.

The Indianapolis American association club gave Vic his first real chance in baseball. It also gave him his first long train rides.

Reciding that Vic had the makings, but was a bit green, the Indians sent him to Denver under option, only to recall him and farm him to Erie, Pa. The following season, however, he produced. After he had won sixteen and lost fourteen games for the Hoosier team the Chicago club bought him. The Cub bosses decided after two years that they didn't need him in their pennant plans, so Vic was sent to the Los Angeles club soon after the start of the 1918 campaign. He spent the next three seasons convincing the Cub owners that they needed him. In 1922 the club paid a fairly big price for him.

Aldridge won sixteen and lost fifteen games for the Cublets in 1922, and collected the same number of victories while losing but nine games two years ago. Last season he won fifteen and lost 12.

With the Pirate outfit the coming season Aldridge should have a bigger year than any he has enjoyed to date. Last Season Bill Killefer had Alexander, Jacobs, Keen and Kaufman, all going good. Aldridge did not receive as many chances to work as he will at Pittsburgh, where Bill McKechnie has Yde, Kremer and Morrison as his main hopes, in addition to Aldridge. Vic should have a chance to work every fourth day.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Imbued with the quite plausible belief that the season of 1925 will see him better his home run record or permanently abandon the chase, George H. Ruth, the well-known outfielder, is today en route for Hot Springs for the purpose of boiling the beef right down to the bone.

Before boarding the train, the Babe declared himself as follows:

He would hit at least sixty home runs and the New York Yankees would win another pennant. He weighed slightly less than what the coal dealers refer to as a short ton.

"I admit that this year probably will mark my last serious attempt to break my record of fifty-nine," the great man said. "I feel, of course, that I am good for at least five or six seasons more as a big leaguer, maybe longer, but as time goes on my chances of beating the record reduce. I have no illusions about that. What was easy when you were a kid becomes increasingly hard as you advance beyond the thirty mark."

The great man expressed here the general opinion of close observers. They have witnessed his struggles with the demon fat from year to year and they are pleased to note that it is a losing battle. Just what the babe weighs at the moment must remain a secret for the simple reason that the babe is like the daisies. He won't tell.

On other matters he was almost loquacious, however. The Yankees seemed to be his favorite theme.

"I think you will see the old club, as it was in 1923, playing ball this year," quoth he. "We just kicked the pennant away last season. Over-confidence or something. I am not trying to take anything away from the Senators. They deserved everything they got and more. But we have the better club, and 1925 will prove it. The Tigers are always dangerous, too, and the Athletics are bound to be an improved ball club. However, all I can say is watch the Yankees."

Many may agree with the young man's ideas here but not with his apparent belief that he has a white man's chance for the home run record. There are too many factors that will militate against his efforts.

One of them is the good word emanating from semi-official sources that the day of the slugger is gone. This, they say, is to be the pitchers' year and the rather hectic efforts of the various clubs to line up and develop their stuffs would seem to bear out this idea. Connie Mack, for example, is taking his pitchers south in less than three weeks' time. They also say the so-called "rabbit ball," the existence of which was never admitted in official quarters, is a thing of the past and point to the marked falling off in home runs last year as proof of the contention. The babe, himself, fell all of 12 behind his record, which is another angle to the story.

He played seventy-seven games on the wide open spaces of the Yankee stadium and being a gentleman of tact and discernment, he shortened his swing on many occasions; in fact, so many that he led the league in hitting. It might be mentioned that the babe will play seventy-seven games on the Yankee stadium again this season. He compiled his great record while playing half of the season at the Polo grounds where the right field wall is convenient and moderately low.

DEMPSEY APPEARS AT WRONG OFFICE

Champion Asked for License At Marriage Bureau, But Not That Kind

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—All was quiet in the life of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, today, following the explanation that when he appeared at the court house here late Saturday afternoon he had not bought a marriage license with which to wed Estelle Taylor, film actress, but, on the contrary, wanted a permit to open a gymnasium.

Dempsey did appear at the marriage license bureau, it was learned, and asked, "May I get a license?" But it was later learned that he had made a mistake in the offices, and that he probably had been misdirected. The explanation came late Saturday night, when Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, was found, and said he knew nothing about the marriage license, but did know that earlier in the day Dempsey had left their hotel with the intention of obtaining a license for the gymnasium. Miss Taylor stated that if Dempsey was or had been trying to secure a marriage license she knew nothing of it.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The Boston Red Sox should stand up to the feed rack this coming season with any of their contemporaries provided Lee Fohl succeeds in making a fast first baseman out of Todt. And Fohl has a chance of achieving that, for Todt is not bad by any means.

A fast first baseman would speed the Red Sox infield up by ten to fifteen per cent. Wambsgansse on second base in 1924, while not hitting much, was covering as much ground as any second baseman in the circuit, with the possible exception of Collins. Lee at short stop never had a chance to show half what he can do because of illness, and the third base corner was plugged—not filled—and the plug kept dropping out all the time.

This year Prothero, who started with Washington in 1924 and was sent back to Memphis at his own request, will start with Boston and stay right where he is put until Fohl manages to get some one better. There is a little tale about Prothero that is worth reciting.

Last spring, down in Tampa, where the Washingtons were training, the team appeared to be a much better ball team than Griffith had taken to that part of the United States before. The players were full of snap and pep and there was much debate as to what had come over them. Almost everybody came to the conclusion that it was partly because of the optimistic and self confident smile with which Walter Johnson went about his work and partly because Prothero at third base was not letting much get by him, and was smacking the ball when hits were needed. Prothero certainly fed the Washingtons with more confidence than they had possessed in a long time, because when Bluege could not play the Washington infield had felt uneasy.

If he can produce the same sort of mental uplift at Boston it will make a difference in the American league, for if Boston can win ten more games than in 1924 the Red Sox may settle the supremacy of the league.

TO-NIGHT'S CARD

Pasadena gymnasium and Nick Collins' arena have combined to stage a big boxing benefit for Ollie Cox, third baseman of the fast Eagle nine, and Charles Douglas, center fielder, both of whom are laid up on account of recent injuries. The show will be given tonight at 71 West Colorado street, Pasadena.

The following program has been arranged: Wrestling match, Al Schernic vs. Cyclone Griffin, boxing, four rounds; Joe Tate, Glendale vs. Art Evans, Pasadena; Jessie Cox, Pasadena fire department vs. Chet Borden, Glendale; Art Becker vs. Troy Bailey; Goldie Hughes, "Fighting Carpenter" vs. K. O. Johnson, fireman.

SWEET POTATOES

LA FAYETTE, La., Feb. 2.—A train load of sweet potatoes gathered by the Southern Sweet Potato exchange of Opelouses has left here to be distributed to western and northwestern points.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Basketball fives of the state of Indiana representing colleges not members of the western conference are now in the midst of their annual clean-up of Big Ten court teams. Indiana for years seemed to have the literary market cornered. Now the Hoosier commonwealth is gaining similar distinction in the sport of tap, bounce and pass.

Thus far this season quintets of Indiana colleges have succeeded in defeating more than half the teams of the western conference.

Each year since the war the carnage has grown greater so that now the race in the Indiana conference has a more important aspect from the standpoint of championship rateing than the Big Ten race. Yet the standard of basket ball in the larger conference is really high grade.

Take the team of Butler college, Indianapolis, which won the national A. A. U. title at Kansas City last year. This winter the Butler outfit went to Iowa City and defeated Iowa 26-22; in spite of trains delayed by snow the team reached Madison next night and swamped Dr. Meanwell's Wisconsin five, 22-16. Jumping to Milwaukee next night Pat Page's tossers turned back Marquette, a team famous for its copper-riveting guarding.

Three games in three nights against two A-1 conference teams and the Milwaukee Irish. Rather an achievement, was it not. The next week Butler defeated Illinois at Indianapolis and next night lost its first game of the season to Ohio State.

Then, Wabash, in turn, nosed out Butler and at last accounts had lost but one game, a one point thriller, to Wisconsin. Indiana State Normal has beaten the powerful University of Indiana five and Franklin college, defeated but once in three years has already beaten Purdus and Wisconsin, a team that is never weak.

Notre Dame has beaten Northwestern. Vanderbilt came up out of the south and bowed to Butler, Franklin, Wabash and Depauw. Indiana has turned back Kentucky and Mercer, as in 1921, has had no luck in the Hoosier state.

What is behind it all? In trying to answer this the Franklin college five might be subjected to analysis. The men who comprise this five today were all members of the same Sunday school class in Franklin as boys.

The teacher was Earnest Wagner. As basketball has long been Hoosierdom's favorite indoor sport—it annually outshines the radio, the klan, writing novels and talking politics, this Sunday school class organized a little basketball team. Wagner helped them.

When the boys went into the High school he was still with them. They won three Indiana High school championships in succession, an interscholastic record in the state.

When they entered Franklin college Wagner was prevailed upon to stay with them as athletic director and basketball coach at the Baptist college. In three years of college play they have lost but one game.

Primarily Indiana colleges seem to benefit from an annual supply of seasoned prep school material. In no high schools in the country are there shown such clever change of pace from short passes to long passes, from setup shots to long range bulls eyes, or four and five-man defense of caliber so high.

Preparatory school athletics in Indiana are controlled by the Indiana High School Athletic association, an organization of high school principals, governed by a board of control elected annually by the principals at the state teachers' convention. It has jurisdiction over all sports but its strong suit is basketball.

In March the tournament is held in which the 800-odd members of the organization each enter a squad of eight varsity men in the state championship competition. The tourney is held at the state fair grounds at Indianapolis and it attracts thousands of spectators who carry municipal and regional rivalry to the limit of vocal enthusiasm. It is estimated that 20,000 will watch each decisive game of the tournament in March—and there are fifteen games in the final play offs.

Since Thanksgiving every Friday has been characterized by approximately 400 high school games throughout the state and they are all preliminary to the final championship tests. Indiana is basketball mad and therein is perhaps contributed the answer to the proficiency of her college fives.

BUILDING ACTIVE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2.—Building is active and there is excellent demand for all classes of building materials here and in the country districts. Experts say building operations here involved $43,900,000 in the last year although permits issued by the city called for expenditures of only $15,000,000.

A radical complains that the supreme court has too much authority. Well, somebody in America ought to have a little authority.

HULI TRUCKS TO MEET CREAMERY

Third Week of City League Basketball Will Start at Gym Tonight

Tonight will see the third week of the City league basketball schedule get under way, when the Huli Trucks meet the Calla Lily aggregation at Harvard High school gym. The Huli Trucks are leading the list, having won from Standard Oils and Christian church, while the creamery men are in third position, winning from the Methodist Episcopal church, but losing to the Radios.

Wednesday night the Christian Church and the Standard Oils will meet, thus breaking up the cellar combination, as both teams have lost two games. Thursday night the Radios and M. E. Church are billed for a game. The Radios are tied with Huli Trucks for first place, while the churchmen are close on their heels.

The Legion game for this week has not been announced, but it will probably be tomorrow night. The Legion lost its first game Thursday night, after a game uphill fight, the M. E. Church winning, 29 to 22.

BASEBALL

Zelzah took a firmer grip on its position in the San Fernando Valley league race yesterday by defeating Owensmouth, 10 to 4, at Zelzah.

The fourth inning proved disastrous for Cherry Heights yesterday in a game against the Compton Firemen, when the firefighters made fourteen runs. The final score was 20 to 5.

Twelve innings of airtight baseball were dished up for fans at Maywood yesterday when the Blue Bird Laundry lost to Maywood, 1 to 0. Tally was on the mound for the losers, while Palmer hurled for the winners. Each pitcher was touched for four hits. Palmer fanned twelve and Tully fanned eleven.

Another twelve-inning game was played at the C. C. M. O. park, when the Southern California Gas team won, 2 to 1, over the C. C. M. O. team. Les Quinn was the winning pitcher, with Leo Seiffert on the losing end.

Burbank had an easy time shutting out Lankershim yesterday in a San Fernando Valley league game, 10 to 0. Conkwright allowed the losers five hits, while his teammates gathered fifteen off Huffaker.

Burbank defeated the E. M. Smith Co. team Saturday in an Industrial league game at Burbank, 3 to 2. The winners scored three runs in the first inning on a walk, an error and a misjudged fly. Manuel held the Burbank team scoreless for the rest of the game, the Smith crew getting two runs in the ninth.

In other K. C. league games, besides the one at Glendale the results were: Hollywood 8, Los Angeles 1; Santa Ana 9, Pasadena 7.

Ask Ballplayers to Meeting Wednesday

Bill Reeves, chief supporter and booster of the American Legion baseball team last season, has issued a call for a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the White Sox park of all players who were in the lineup of the post's club last year. Any former members of the old Glendale Merchants still here also have been asked to turn out.

Withdrawal of the White Sox has left a number of good ball players idle and with the coming of warmer and longer days, Bill plans to get together one of the best independent aggregations ever turned out here.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Joseph L. Kelley

This break the fillum fans have been reading about doesn't mean very much just now, but it's going to cause a lot of so-called shake-ups in the motion picture industry. Trouble has been brewing for some time—trouble that the public knows nothing about. Will Hays, who was campaign manager for Harding, later postmaster-general in Harding's cabinet, resigning to accept the "czar of filmdom" title, heads the organization just now the subject of attack by the "little fellow." The "little fellow" is any one of the majority producing organizations turning out pictures. Albert E. Smith, head of the Vitagraph company, made the first move. Vitagraph withdraws from organization of producers Will Hays leads. Vitagraph only a year or so back was plaintiff in a federal suit against Famous Players-Lasky, one of the "big three" under Hays, in a restraint of trade suit.

This action on the part of Vitagraph wasn't made "off the handle." Its decision has been hanging fire a long time. Albert Smith could see no reason why he and his organization should remain in the organization Hays rules. He dropped out.

There is a lot of dissension right now in the rank and file of picture production. Warner Brothers, for instance, with one of the finest and most modern picture plants in Hollywood, will tell you that their biggest problem is getting bookings for their product.

Warner Brothers' problem has become so acute that a short time ago this organization started formulating plans to build its own theatres in the larger cities of the country. They figured that was the only way they would be enabled to get access in the different cities for their pictures.

The "big three" (Famous Players-Lasky, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and First National) are accused of getting their heads together and acting to the detriment of the "little fellows."

General Pershing is reported to have been offered the command of the forces opposing the Big Three-Hays organization. There is no doubt but that Vitagraph's move will be followed by others, and that a new organization will spring into being.

It would be the best thing that ever happened to the motion picture industry and a great move in favor of the millions of fans. As things stand now, there are thousands of film fans denied the right to see certain pictures simply because the makers of those pictures can't get a theatre in which to exhibit them. They're not particularly favored by the ruling powers in Hays' organization.

Go downtown in Los Angeles. How many of L. A.'s leading theatres, and there are quite a few of them, will you find showing pictures that haven't originated under the banner of Famous Players - Lasky, Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer or First National, the Big Three?

There is no particular reason why you shouldn't see other pictures there. There are a lot of other good pictures made and, in many instances, far better pictures than made by the above-named three.

At all events, there is more than one dissatisfied producer in the picture industry today. It's the easiest task in the world today to produce a motion picture, but it is the hardest to find a market for it after it is produced.

Something's wrong when such state exists in any business or profession. Albert E. Smith has made the first move in attempting to solve the difficulty. Others will follow. Together these dissenters will be powerful—alone they will be useless. Moral: Let the "little fellows" get together, then the Big Fellows won't be so strong.

Negotiations Halted Chaplin's Trust Fund

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—Final arrangements for the establishment of a trust fund for the expected heir of Charlie Chaplin and his girl wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, have reached a temporary halt, it was learned today because the comedian feels that the establishment of such a fund is premature because the child has not been born. However, Chaplin is said to be keenly desirous of creating a trust fund for his child soon after birth.

Edwin McMurray, San Francisco attorney, uncle of Mrs. Chaplin, who came here ten days ago to represent his niece in the financial negotiations, was reported today as en route back to the northern city.

DIRECTORS WILL PICK SECRETARY

Successor to Frank Pilling To Be Named Tomorrow; Approve Bonds

The board of directors of the Glendale Merchants' association will meet tomorrow at noon to consider a successor to Secretary Frank H. Pilling, who recently resigned his place. Twenty-five applications for the position of secretary have been received, according to President J. C. Hatz.

Officers of the association, elected recently, were in charge of the meeting today, held at the Harriett Mae Tea room, with Vice-President Butts presiding. Steps to be taken for the broadening of interests and the improvement of the organization were discussed by Ole Andresen, H. M. Butts, President Hatz, W. P. Potter, Don Packer, Lyman P. Clark, Dr. R. C. Logan and others. Among the undertakings of the new year will be an augmented membership and a more economical and efficient administration of the association's affairs, Mr. Andresen said. Less time will be consumed at the meetings for investigation of credits in the future, he said, with more attention being given subjects of general interest to merchants who do a cash as well as credit business.

Endorse School Bonds

On motion by Mr. Andresen, seconded by George Bentley, the association went on record unanimously endorsing the proposed school bond issues. This action followed an appeal in behalf of the bonds by V. M. Hollister.

An announcement of the forthcoming Glendale automobile show to be held here from March 7 to 14 was made by Mr. Packer. He and Mr. Clark urged a larger membership of auto dealers in the Merchants' association. Dr. Logan said professional men should be better represented.

Members of the Merchants' association will attend the Glendale performances of the Mission Play on Wednesday, in company with members of other Glendale organizations.

A vote of thanks to former Secretary Pilling was carried unanimously. In his talk, Mr. Andresen praised the manner in which Mr. Pilling had served the association.

Pilling Will Become Plumbers' Secretary

Frank H. Pilling, formerly executive secretary of the Glendale Merchants' association, whose resignation took effect today, will become secretary-treasurer of the Glendale - Burbank - Eagle Rock Merchant Plumbers' association. Offices of the plumbers' organization will for the present be maintained in conjunction with Chamber of Commerce headquarters at 150 South Brand boulevard.

The merchant plumbers of Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock have been banded together in an association for a period of three years. Present officers are: Fred S. Hannaford, Eagle Rock, president, and Charles Mays, Glendale, vice-president. Under the executive guidance of Mr. Pilling, it is the intention to reorganize the association and make it a more active factor in the business and constructional life of the district, President Hannaford said.

LUTHERANS HEAR REV. KRINGEL TALK

'Spiritual Growth' Discussed By Lutheran Pastor at Sunday Service

"Spiritual Growth" was the theme of the sermon delivered yesterday by Rev. Henry O. Kringel, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church. He said:

"On a certain occasion Jesus saw a fig tree in the way. He went to it, expecting to find figs thereon, but found only leaves. Disappointed He cursed that tree. 'Let no fruit grow on thee forever.' And presently the tree withered away. At another time in a parable He sets forth the same truth. Jesus expected to find fruit on these trees. The purpose of the fig tree is to bear figs. So it is with men and their religion.

"Man's faith is not to be without fruit, a dead thing, a cumbrance and burden to the heart. The Lord wants fruit. Our faith must be fruit-bearing. It must be active and must be seen in works of love and charity.

"The psalmist compares the true believer to a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season.

Fruit Bearing Christian

"Having shown the great urgency of being a fruit-bearing Christian, a believer that does good works, I pass on to say, that we all have need of increasing it. It is a common law on earth to grow and increase. Christians are told: 'Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.' It is of much spiritual growth, whereof our passage treats, Ephesians 3:13-21. And what are the effects on such spiritual growth?

"The first effect is, by growth and strength in grace, we receive a greater knowledge and deeper comprehension of the wonderful counsel of God pertaining to our salvation. And the more we are strengthened the greater the knowledge of this blessed mystery, by which we have salvation. Another effect is we shall be 'filled with the fullness of God.' All grace and spiritual gifts will He abundantly lavish upon us. The penitent believer in Christ will receive the forgiveness of sins through the shedding of His precious blood upon Calvary's cross and where there is forgiveness of sins, there is also life and eternal salvation. Therefore by faith in Christ make all these great spiritual blessings your own."

'RESTORED SOUL' REV. FORD SERMON

Pastor of First Baptist In Address Talks on Need And Real Want

"A Restored Soul" was the subject of the communion sermon delivered yesterday morning at the First Baptist church by Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor, taking as his text Psalm 23:3: 'He Resoreth my Soul,' saying:

"'I shall not want.' Some have difficulty with the word 'want' and think it should be 'need.' Want runs deeper than need. If I really let the Lord be my Shepherd I shall not want.' Psalm 34:10: 'The young lions do lack and suffer hunger but they that wait upon the Lord shall not want.' A restless age, hungry sheep do not lie down. So many hungry and thirsty folks are always on the go, seeking something to satisfy the longing.

"If I might dare to analyze this hurrying, worrying age I should say that the great difficulty is one of indigestion. So many people trying to satisfy the hunger of the soul with substitutes for the 'Bread of Life.' Hunger and thirst are real facts of life, not theory. Health and work call for food. Sickness and inaction do not make appetite. Perverted appetite calls for condiments, opiates, and stimulants.

"No healthy man would drink a glass of rum or smoke a cigarette. Watch what a man selects to satisfy the cry of his soul and you have his biography. Pink pills, coca cola and cigarettes for pale people and rouge, lipsticks and charcoal for pale people. Folks are pale because of lack of red blood in their veins and the only remedy is the 'bread' and 'water' of life. Restless, 'He maketh me lie down' and 'Come unto Me all ye who are heavy laden and I will give you rest'; uncertain, whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him, shall never thirst; homesick, the prodigal has only husks when he could have had bread."

SERMON ON GRACE IS PASTOR'S TEXT

Rev. Thomas Urges Grand View Parishioners To Be Worthy Of God

"Let Us Be Worthy of the Grace We Receive" was the theme of the sermon delivered yesterday morning by Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor of the Grand View Community church, from Corinthians 5:1, "We then, as workers together with Him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain." He said:

"Paul with his characteristically stinging clearness sets three points sharply into the minds of the Corinthian church members: first, that they have received something from God for which they ought to be profoundly grateful and of which they ought to be eternally conscious; second, that there are people upon whom it proves useless for God to bestow His grace, because they never do anything; third, that the fellowship of the busy and the purposeful is the only one worth the grace of God at all, and in that fellowship the Corinthian church may go on to cleanse itself from all filthiness of flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of the Lord.

"Let us in the Grand View church be worthy of the grace which we have received. As individuals we have experienced the Salvation of Jesus Christ, been translated into the Kingdom and made 'partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.' As a church God has blessed us at every turn. But a little while ago we were out, looking in. Now we are in, looking out. We were back yonder, looking forward. Now we are arrived hither, looking onward; but let us be keenly conscious that it is all by His grace, and let us be worthy of the grace we have received.

"Otherwise we shall be ashamed to look God in the face when He asks us what became of the grace He bestowed upon us in Grand View. Don't let the recording angel ever write that after the Grand View folk got a church they proved unworthy and received the grace of God in vain.

"Thus far we can truly say that we have belonged in the fellowship of the busy and the purposeful. Now that we have arrived to be ourselves, let us consolidate our gains and go forward. The next great outstanding work to which Christ and the human leaders of our church call us, is evangelism, an evangelism like that of the Apostolic church when every church member is called to be an evangelist and take the Gospel out where people live and work and struggle. Out where the need is, that is where the promises are kept to those who prove themselves worthy of the grace they have received. Let us prove ourselves worthy in this Holy Season in which our Lord drew near to Gethsemane, Calvary, and the Resurrection for our sakes."

Christian Endeavor Day Is Celebrated

VALUE OF PRAYER TEXT FOR SERMON

Dr. Winnard, Tropico Pastor, Emphasizes Words That Come From Heart

Dr. James F. Winnard, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterian church preached a sermon last night on the text "Search Me O God." Dr. Winnard emphasized the fact that the great prayers of the scripture are:

"Short prayers that come from the heart. The thief on the Cross uttered but a single sentence but it saved his soul and a poor sinner went down to his house justified because he cried out 'God be merciful to me a sinner.' We are not heard for our much speaking but because of the heart we put into our prayers. This text is a fine example of sentence prayer—so short one can memorize it and so far reaching we can all make it our own. That is we can if we want to.

"I saw a man searched the other day. But the officers merely went through his pockets looking for booze and pistols. But when God answers this prayer of ours he searches to the very thoughts and intents of our hearts. There is nothing that escapes his eye. And whether we pray this prayer or not it remains a fact that God does daily search us and knows us—all our thoughts and actions whether they be good or evil.

"So it is best to recognize this in the prayer and follow the leadings of His Spirit in the way everlasting. We do not offer this prayer with the thought that the Lord will have a hard time in finding sin within us but with the idea that he will show us our own unrighteousness and lead us in the way of salvation. And the way of salvation is the way of repentance, of confession and of service. And having prayed the prayer we should willingly follow his leadership."

"'In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He will direct thy path.'"

Are You Worried About Your Hair?

Having been on the lookout for a desirable business location for some time, beg to announce my new location, 103½ South Brand boulevard, where more convenient quarters makes it possible to serve my patients in a most satisfactory manner. Was formerly located at 314 West Colorado.

Nature's way of restoring the hair and scalp, is through the blood, and the method I use is founded on this precise principle, in the Golden System Scalp Treatments.

In my eight months' practice in Glendale, hundreds of people have been treated, and I have not had one case that did not respond to these treatments.

The Golden System Treatment is an original, legitimate and scientific treatment for the hair, involving a nerve pressure massage of the shoulders, neck and scalp. Aids Nature in establishing a normal blood circulation in the scalp, thereby restoring color to gray hair, curing baldness, dandruff, falling, dry or brittle hair. Eliminates excessive oil, rejuvenates impoverished hair and positively grows hair. No tonics or appliances used.

To further introduce the Golden System Treatments, for a limited time will give 15 treatments for $20. Maurice Hill, Hair and Scalp Specialist. Phone Glen. 2615-J. Consultation free. Lady operator. 103½ South Brand.—Advertisement.

REALTORS MEET AT MONTHLY BANQUET

Hayward & McCartney Sales Force Shows Evidence of Glendale's Prosperity

The spirit of prosperity in Glendale was evident at the monthly banquet and sales meeting of the force of Hayward & McCartney, 142 South Brand boulevard, held Saturday night at the Tam O'Shanter Inn on Los Feliz road. During the meeting it was brought out that while the inn was located in the Atwater district of Los Angeles, geographically, it belonged to Glendale, as did other business frontage on Los Feliz road.

Those present at the dinner were E. P. Hayward and H. E. McCartney, members of the firm, P. P. Lehman, manager of the insurance department, and the following salesmen: C. F. Waechter, C. M. Young, G. A. Mudgett, J. C. Slater, Frank Hoopes, W. J. Horstman and L. J. Dannell.

After a bountiful dinner, results for the past month were discussed and plans for February were outlined, all looking to the betterment of the strong organization. It was reported the business for January was exceptionally good and indicated a new high mark for February.

Fine Sales Record

Sales during January averaged better than one a day, thirty-two sales having been consummated in the month, it was reported. In Beautiful Bellevue the tract originally subdivided by the firm, and in which there is more building at the present time than in any other section of Glendale, two lots were resold for original purchasers. One lot is on Chelton street and one lot on Bellevue drive. Two houses will be built on these lots, it was announced.

Adjoining Bellevue on the north, in a tract in which there are only twenty-two lots, seven lots were sold by the firm during January. Six houses are to be built on Watson street and one on Mountain street, it was reported. One lot was sold on Watson court, and a house will be erected soon. Two lots were sold for T. W. Watson Co., in Woodbury Heights, and one purchaser has engaged the planning department of Hayward & McCartney to draft plans for a structure in keeping with the surroundings.

In Bellehurst Park, one lot was sold on Mountain street, one on Jackson street, three on Everett street and one on Howard street, it was reported. Other lots in various sections of Glendale sold during the month number eleven. The firm also sold the following houses for M. J. Murray: 1042 Howard street, 1036 Everett street and 604 Arden street. One business lot on San Fernando road was sold by Mr. Mudgett, who specializes in business properties. Several options were taken on frontage on Los Feliz road, but the deals were not closed, due to the absence of the owners from the city, and these are not included in the thirty-two sales listed.

The majority of the sales for January were made to persons who do not live in Glendale, it was reported, thus bringing more people to Glendale to live. Attention was called to the fact that the L. J. Christensen Co., was induced to come to Glendale by Mr. Hayward, who negotiated the lease.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Railroad stocks participated more actively in the rally in stock prices today than in any session for a week or more. The oil stocks were the backbone of the market, heavy trading in the best known independent and Standard Oil shares, following reports of a decline in Wortham pool to 15,000 barrels a day, an advance in Corning crude oil and steady decline in the amount of stored oil products.

Standard Oil stocks on the curb and the listed market continued the vigorous rally in prices which has been in progress since the first week in January and the active independent oils were joined by a few more stocks in both markets. Louisiana oil, Skelly, Pure Oil, Sinclair, Cosden and many other oil shares made new high price records for the movement, in some cases these being the highest prices since 1923.

Eastern rails, like New York Central and western lines made fractional advances and St. Paul preferred recovered 2 points of its recent losses.

There were few speculative performances elsewhere in the lists, trading slowed down after the third hour. Mack Truck moved up 7 points to 13 and settled down to 136. Sloss Sheffield led the independent steel stocks at an advance of four points to 90 1-2; Gulf States was up one point to 90 1-2 on a fairly active turnover. The big market leaders like U. S. Steel, Baldwin and American Can were conspicuous for their absence from the active trading lists and price trends were slightly downward. General Electric advanced from its opening price of 241 1-4 to 247, but the Electric Bond and Share Co. stocks distributed to its shareholders declined on the curb to 65 3-4.

The rise in the mercantile, shipping, copper and sugar stocks was halted temporarily at least and trading in these stocks was considerably reduced.

Stock sales today totalled 1,730,200 shares; bonds $15,758,000.

Dream of School Days Will Now Come True

Fulfilling a schoolgirl promise made eighteen years ago, before any of the trio were married, Mrs. S. S. Gilhuly of 342 El Bonito avenue, wife of Councilman Gilhuly, leaves tonight for San Francisco with Mrs. Fred Wood of Chicago and Mrs. Richard McKay of Sacramento, on the first leg of a journey to Hawaii.

All three are college chums. Back in Missouri, nearly a score of years ago, when they were full of girlhood's romantic dreams, they promised that some day they would visit those dreamy isles of the Pacific, where ukuleles tinkle and lithe, brown-backed boys ride surfboards to the combing beach, and now the dream is being fulfilled. They sail February 4, from San Francisco, aboard the Maui, to be gone two weeks.

A CRISIS

The petition of the Calla Lily Creamery to have their property classed as industrial property will come up for decision before the City Planning Commission tonight at 7:30 o'clock and again before the City Council tomorrow at 10 a. m..

The residents and property owners of southeast Glendale have united to oppose the granting of the petition and to work for the removal of the creamery from the neighborhood, basing their action upon the following pertinent facts:

I—Removal Has Long Been Anticipated

Of the home-owners buying property in the district since the creamery acquired its site some three years ago the majority had either the promise or the implication that the existence of the creamery was but temporary.

II—An Error Not To Be Repeated

Seventeen months ago a determined fight was made before the City Council in which the neighborhood clearly showed its opposition to the continued existence of the creamery on its present site. Various reports that the purchase of a new site in the industrial district was under way caused a lull in the proceedings. The lull is now over.

III—Home Owners Have Doubled the Value of the Creamery Property

The rapid development of the district into a neighborhood of high-class homes has added at least $10,000 to the value of the creamery site. This should be a considerable help in the removal process.

IV—Home Values Hurt

The very possibility that the creamery site may be classed as industrial has depreciated the value of homes in the neighborhood. There are approximately 500 homes in this territory, which is a substantial part of the new Union High School District.

V—Good-Will a Valuable Asset

It is the urgent desire of the home-owners in the neighborhood to procure the removal of the creamery to a proper industrial district, where ample facilities for expansion may be had. Such removal, if peaceably made, would enhance the business of the creamery, as many not now its customers because of the controversy would again become such. Opposition might prove costly, as public opinion and good will are both assets of inestimable value.

VI—A Determined Organization Now at Work

The attempt at this time to fasten an industrial district upon the neighborhood has aroused the home-owners to a determined and organized effort of opposition. We believe that the City Planning Commission and the City Council, having at heart the interests of the community as a whole, will, in justice, aid us in our fight, and deny the petition.

VII—Civic Pride

Much has been heard of Civic Pride. No greater injury can be done to this community, and to our Civic Pride, than the promiscuous locating of industrial districts within our corporate limits.

VIII—Co-operation

We respectfully solicit the sympathy and co-operation of every man, woman and civic group in Glendale, and especially the Chamber of Commerce, in our struggle to protect our neighborhood of homes.
